COLD WEATHER SOLD OUT FIRST

How's a guy supposed to make any money if he doesn't have any customers? glumly wonders Glen Eaton, 1307 Marshall St. The 10-year-old merchant set up his drink stand at the corner of Marshall Street and Buckland Avenue this week to bring in enough cash to buy a swimming mask. But the cooler weather quenched a thirsty public. Why don't you move your operation out to Pandosy Street where there would be more customers? the boy was asked. "Ah, my mom won't let me," was the despondent answer. As if the shortage of paying customers wasn't bad enough, then a photographer came around and started cadging free drinks. (Courier photo)

Bell Tolls More Strongly For End Of Weir Regime

WINNIPEG (CP) — The bell tolled loudly today for Premier Walter Weir and his Manitoba Progressive Conservative government, victims of one of the most stunning election upsets in Canadian history.

All signs indicated Ed Schreyer, 33, would launch the New Democratic Party into a new era of provincial politics—perhaps before the weekend is over.

Five of the eight cliffhanger ridings in the June 25 general election reported final official results Thursday night after the addition of hospital and mail-in votes.

They confirmed the election of three Conservative candidates and two Liberals.

Education Minister Donald Craik in Riel, Mayor Jack Hardy in St. Vital and Wally McKenzie in Roblin. All Conservatives increased their margins.

Fewer than 100 votes separated the top two candidates in the ridings.

Liberals Steve Patrick in Assiniboia and Gordon Johnston in Portage la Prairie also were confirmed.

The margin ranged from 96 votes for Mr. McKenzie to 11 for Mr. Johnston.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

They did nothing to change the election-night standings in which NDP inroads, including the toppling of five cabinet ministers, gave them 28 seats in the 57-member legislature against 22 for Conservatives, five for the Liberals, one Social Credit and one Independent.

Conservatives had held 31 seats as dissolution. Liberals 15 NDP 12 and Social Credit one.

Remaining to report, probably today, were Dauphin, where Transportation Minister Stewart McLean ran second to an NDP candidate, Birtle-Russell where a Conservative led a New Democrat, and Churchill where Independent Gordon Beard, a former Conservative who resigned two years ago, had an edge over a Liberal.

In Dauphin, Peter Burniak led Mr. McLean by 154 votes, Don Kostesky was 12 votes ahead of Harry Graham in Birtle-Russell; and Mr. Beard led by 133 votes in Churchill over Walter Perepeluk.

Apollo Crew Reach Home Base But With A Word Of Caution

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (CP-AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts flew to their home base Thursday after taking their spacecraft through its final major test before the launch to the moon, planned for July 16.

The three astronauts, given the mission of making man's first landing on the moon, were spending U.S. Independence Day with their families after arriving at the manned space centre in Houston.

While the preparations went along smoothly, a word of caution came from two of the astronauts who made the Apollo 10 trail-blazing flight to within 67 miles of the moon's surface.

The man-on-the-moon mission is far from being a "piece of cake," Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan warned Thursday night during a visit to Stafford's hometown in Weatherford, Okla.

Cernan explained that any of the problems encountered by the Apollo 10's three-man crew, "plus—I don't hesitate to say it—hundreds of thousands of others that could occur could keep Apollo 11 from landing on the moon."

The Apollo 11 test here was a countdown rehearsal and launch director Rocco Petrone said the seven-day exercise went "extremely smoothly."

Meanwhile, the monkonaut, Bonny, continues his journey on a mission to establish the effect of a long space trip on the animal frame. He was launched by a Delta rocket Saturday, facing a 30-day trip to test his reactions. Cape Kennedy control centre is keeping a close eye on him via television cameras and other recording devices.

Germ, Gas Warfare Research Will Be Continued By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate armed services committee has decided the U.S. military should continue research for defence against gas and germ warfare, but should hold up development of such offensive weapons of its own.

Growing congressional concern over chemical and biological warfare—CBW—was reflected in the committee's announcement Thursday it had deleted a $18,000,000 item from the Pentagon's proposed $22,000,000 weapons and research authorization bill.

But the committee approved $38,000,000 for defensive devices and agents against CBW.

The $18,000,000 was only a tiny part of the $1,000,000,000 trimmed from the Pentagon requests. The Nixon administration already had sliced $255,000,000 from the budget by cancelling work on the Cheyenne helicopter and the Manned Orbiting Laboratory, but the committee chopped off more than $800,000,000 in addition. Left in the bill was the full $758,400,000 asked by the administration for a controversial anti-missile system.

Saboteurs Slice B.C. Phone Lines At Three Points

VANCOUVER (CP) — The tempo of vandalism against the strikebound British Columbia Telephone Company increased Thursday, but management officials have so far carefully avoided directly accusing members of the Federation of B.C. Telephone Workers.

In Thursday's incidents: three telephone poles in New Westminster were knocked over, cutting service to 11 customers; a cable was chopped through in suburban Port Moody, knocking out 250 telephones; and another cable was severed at a Shell Oil Co. office with the loss of 34 lines.

In a carefully-worded press release, B.C. Tel described the incidents as "deliberate damage," and added that the RCMP was advised in each case.

The release made no mention of the 6,000-member federation and said the company went through the 11th day of the strike "with services near normal." The company said the province-wide system is being run by 1,446 people, including 1,214 from the ranks of management.

The federation, meanwhile, said it was concerned about the vandalism incidents and has held meetings among strike organizers and local officials.

CLOSE TOUCH

"We are in as close touch as possible with our membership," said federation president Walter Torry. "We certainly hope it isn't any of our members and we feel it isn't any of our members."

The union wants a 32.1 per cent increase in a two-year contract and has rejected a 17.5 per cent management offer. Wages now range between $1.95 and $5.98 hourly.

Shell Oil spokesmen said the company plans to have its grounds patrolled nightly by dogs and handlers to prevent further incidents. Shell is one of six oil companies strikebound by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

Meanwhile, the telephone workers drew support Thursday from the student council at Vancouver City College, which set up a committee that will picket against students working for B.C. Tel.

Spokesmen for both sides in the dispute said they are not asking at this time for federal mediation aimed at settling the strike. Federal labor department officials say the department is ready to supply a mediation officer if both sides ask for one.

There were no developments

Thursday in labor disputes affecting 3,000 grocery clerks and 800 meatcutters which forced closure of 103 supermarkets in the Greater Vancouver area.

The oil workers' strike continued with no new developments in sight.

Glimmering 'Ray Of Light' Seen In War On Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada feels there may be "some faint glimmering of light" in the battle against inflation.

He told a special Commons committee studying interest rates Thursday that he feels Canada's economic policies are on the right track and "I am confident that we can muster the determination and persistence to finish this job."

Mr. Rasminsky said that Canada's economy is so closely linked with the United States economy that developments there have a strong impact on what happens here. "And if the U.S. does not succeed in bringing its inflation under control I think the chances of us eliminating inflation from the Canadian economic situation would not be possible, but a joint fight against inflation would be successful in both countries."

POSES BIGGEST PROBLEM

He said this "inflationary psychology" was one of the biggest challenges to be met. "There is a disconcertingly widely-held view that inflation is a normal or even necessary concomitant of economic expansion and that public policies of restraint will not be carried to the point of dealing effectively with inflation."

"I know that there is a danger of wishful thinking in these matters, but in the past few weeks I have on occasion thought that I could detect some faint glimmering of light on the horizon."

"There are indications of some alleviation of demand pressures in certain sectors of the economy, both here and in the United States. We may be witnessing the beginning of some healthy uncertainty regarding the inevitability of continued inflation."

Killer Of RCMP Corporal Won't Be Visiting Gallows

OTTAWA (CP) — Leonard Otto Borg, 38, sentenced to be hanged July 25 for the capital murder of an RCMP corporal in 1967, had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment by the federal cabinet, Solicitor General George McRath said today.

Mr. McRath said in an interview the cabinet decided Thursday to commute the sentence to life imprisonment in Saskatchewan penitentiary, Prince Albert.

Borg was found guilty of the murder of Cpl. D. A. Harvey.

He was arrested minutes after he shot the 34-year-old RCMP officer in the chest at a garage in Grand Prairie, Alta. The officer had been sent to Borg's residence to investigate a phone call that somebody had been killed.

The body of a woman, Georgina Roberts, 30, was found in the apartment vacated by Borg. No charges were laid in her death.

Borg was convicted of capital murder in a jury trial in Edmonton presided over by Judge J. V. H. Milvain, now chief justice of Alberta. The jury strongly recommended mercy. The judge did not concur.

Stampede Splutters In Wet As Expected 'Gate' Eroded

CALGARY (CP) — The opening day of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede was almost swamped Thursday as a cold rain washed over the grounds eroding attendance figures.

Indoor events attracted most of the 60,876 people who moved through the turnstiles. Many of the big sides on the midway stood idle and grandstand performances were poorly attended.

Last year 75,936 people were on hand for the warm, dry opening day.

The rain was also a nuisance for the rodeo competitors as it turned the infield and the track into a mass of mud that covered them first with splatters and then a thick coat.

Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener had to stand in a light drizzle late in the evening as he officially opened the 57th Stampede.

The chuckwagon races, the last rodeo event of the day, finished minutes before the Governor-General spoke.

CANCEL INDIAN DANCE

The rain forced cancellation of a chicken dance that was to be performed by about 50 Indians late in the afternoon.

St. E. Gardner of Calgary won $2,500 in a daily draw that will be followed the last day with one for $50,000.

Frank L. Montanaro of Great Falls, Mont., won a truck-equipped camper while Marie J. Ewing of Calgary won a convertible.

Prince Walks Into Welcomes But Background Little Tense

SWANSEA (CP-AP) — Prince Charles visited the southeast corner of Wales today—scene of recent terrorist bombings—on the third day of his royal tour while controversy bubbled over a BBC television film on how to blow up a pipeline.

Police in Wales accused the British Broadcasting Corp. of "total and bloody irresponsibility" for giving a "sabotage lesson" on television during the royal tour.

In the film—called Free Wales Army Activities—one of the men convicted in a trial of terrorists this week gave a detailed account of how to blow up a pipeline. The film was used in evidence at the trial.

"It was like throwing a match into a petrol (gasoline) tank," said one senior police officer.

The BBC cancelled a scheduled program to show the film. A BBC spokesman refused to comment on the controversy set off by the documentary show.

Welsh nationalist extremists have threatened violence to make their opposition to the investiture of Charles, the future king, as Prince of Wales. They seek a Wales independent from Britain.

SOLDIER WAS KILLED

A soldier was killed by a fire-bomb nine hours after the Queen-invested her son and heir as Prince of Wales at Caernarfon Castle Tuesday.

There have been no serious incidents since then, however, although a rash of bomb scares have kept the security forces busy.

Wherever the Prince of Wales has gone so far in his new domain, he has been received warmly by the crowds.

Thursday at Carmarthen, heartland of Welsh nationalism, Charles got an uproarious teenage welcome rivaling the deafening days of wildest Beatlemania.

DELIVERED COURIER WILL COST MORE

It is with reluctance that we must announce that effective July 7, 1969, the home delivered price of the Kelowna Courier will be 50 cents per week.

We have endeavored to avoid taking this step but the rising costs of such items as labor and materials have finally forced us to follow the lead of most other daily newspapers. The last increase in our home-delivered price was Jan. 8, 1968.

The increase will be shared by the carrier who serves you. He will receive a proportion of the increase.

As now the carrier boy will collect in two-week periods, punching two holes in the subscriber's card, indicating two weeks' payment.

The price of papers purchased from honor boxes or at the Courier office remains at 10 cents each.

Israel Told A Second Time

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The UN Security Council told Israel Thursday night for a second time to cancel its annexation of the Arab sector of Jerusalem. The vote was unanimous.

But Israel said Jerusalem will continue as it has since the 1967 war, when Israeli troops took over the Jordanian sector and the government declared the city "reunited."

The council adopted an Afro-Asian resolution that "urgently calls once more upon Israel to rescind forthwith all measures taken by it which may tend to change the status of the City of Jerusalem."

The resolution is similar to one the council passed May 21, 1968, but it "censures in the strongest terms" all measures taken to change the status of Jerusalem. It warned that the council will reconvene to consider further action if Israel does not comply.

The United States abstained from the May, 1968, resolution, but voted for the one Thursday night. Observers said it marked a shift in attitude by the U.S. to a less pro-Israeli stand on the status of Jerusalem.

Canada Given Lashing For Crux Case Delays

Magistrate John Bally tongue-lashed Canadian authorities in Nassau, Thursday, for delay in bringing before his court evidence in their application to extradite Duncan Crux, Vancouver financier-lawyer. The magistrate set another hearing for July 8, after warning that further delays could lead to the extradition application being thrown out. RCMP Inspector William Nell, who was to have submitted the depositions against Crux, failed to appear. And Bally refused to let Donald Gardner, a Canadian chartered accountant, submit them because, he said, Gardner was not necessarily qualified to do so. Canada is seeking to have Crux, 63, extradited to face 21 theft and fraud charges, involving about $1,000,000, laid by the British Columbia government.

RAY PERRAULT

Dogfish...? Ugh!

Sen. George McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat and longtime critic of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, says in Boston the best chance for a breakthrough toward peace there is a 30-day ceasefire by U.S. troops. Urging President Nixon to order such a ceasefire, McGovern told the Christian Science Monitor Thursday that should Hanoi respond to a unilateral halt to fighting with a major buildup of its own forces or an attack on U.S. troops, "then we would have to respond with everything we have."

Ray Perrault (L-Burnaby-Smyrour) called in Ottawa Thursday for federal subsidies to create a dogfish industry and suggested that the baby shark, bane of West Coast herring and salmon, be renamed to make it more palatable to consumers. "Nobody's going to rush to the store to buy canned dogfish," Mr. Perrault said in a Commons adjournment debate.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Thursday officially launched the first phase of development on the $85,000,000 Pacific Centre in Vancouver city's downtown area. Hecklers attempted to share in the limelight. The premier said the Georgia and Granville street shopping and business project will be a living example of the ever-increasing potential of British Columbians. He was forced to raise his voice as hecklers shouted "Pacific Centre is graft" and "we want the NDP." A banner read "NDP to power—Manitoba all the way."

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in Vancouver, universities in British Columbia should be spending their money on classrooms and libraries rather than houses for university presidents. The premier was apparently referring to action by the University of Victoria which last week scaled down plans for a $125,000 home for its president elect. "Nobody builds a home for the premier. Why should they build one for the president of a university?"

The government's review of its defence research work in biological and chemical warfare materials is still under way. Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Thursday. Mr. Trudeau said Canada's work is only on defensive aspects of biological warfare materials.

The Nixon administration scrapped Friday arbitrary deadlines for complete school desegregation in favor of more flexible policies. But it held firm on the objective of full desegregation. While abandoning the earlier stated general requirement of full compliance, this fall with federal standards, the administration pledged to step up court suits against dihard districts that are unwilling to move toward integration.

Negro leader Roy Wilkins told a news conference Thursday in Jackson, Miss., that the Nixon administration's action in abolishing the fall deadline for school desegregation is "breakdown of the law." Wilkins, secretary of the NAACP, spoke bitterly of what he called the administration's position that a deadline set 15 years after the Supreme Court ruled out segregation was "too rigid."

An outburst of shooting in downtown Santo Domingo during Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit killed four persons and wounded at least three others, Dominican Republic authorities reported. Much of the shooting apparently involved members of a huge security force deployed about Santo Domingo. President Joaquin Balaguer described them as "inexperienced and spoke of 'nervousness and confusion.'"

Marion E. Hart, a 77-year-old Washington, D.C., woman, landed her single engine Beechcraft Bonanza at Goose Bay, Nfld., Thursday on the first leg of her second solo flight across the Atlantic. Before leaving Presque Isle, Me., she said she also expects to make a landing in Iceland before trying the over-ocean leg of her flight to London, England.

Clifford Tait decided not to drop Hamilton, Ont., from his list of stops in his round-the-world tour in a 95-mile-an-hour airplane because he had a letter to deliver from Mayor Mr. Tait, 59, delivered the letter Thursday to Mayor Victor Copps at city hall and the mayor immediately composed a reply to go by return delivery to his counterpart in New Zealand.

The Queen, who caught a cold at her son's investiture, was reported better today but she was still unable to attend Wimbledon tennis final at Wimbledon. Princess Anne represented the Queen at the All-England championships. The Queen's feverish cold developed after her return to London from Prince Charles' investiture as Prince of Wales in Caernarvon Tuesday. She has been confined to her room at Buckingham Palace since then.

About 240 members of a chartered tour from the British Isles, stranded in London, Ont., since June 28, are still awaiting word on whether arrangements can be made to charter a plane to return them home. Henry Fisher of London, England, appointed chairman of the emergency planning committee for the St. Georges Society charter tour, said Thursday negotiations are still under way for a charter plane.

Americans Mark Independence Day

NEW YORK (CP) — Americans observed the 193rd anniversary of their independence today with a mass exodus from the cities for the three-day holiday weekend.

Many Americans journeyed by plane, bus and car to Canada for the long weekend and others to begin their vacations at the height of the summer season.

One bus line chartered 17 extra buses to take Americans to Ontario and Quebec.

Airlines added scores of extra flights to their schedules. In New York, 450,000 travellers were expected to move through the three metropolitan areas.

Thousands of persons jammed the major bus terminals, many of them awaiting well past midnight Thursday night for transportation.

Most government and business offices were closed. So were most department stores, food markets, banks, courts, libraries and stock markets. The Fourth of July is one of six holidays observed in all 50 states. The others are New Year's, Labor Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

THIS WAS CASE FOR TOYLAND

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Dolly De Leon was "innocent by reason of infancy" and three traffic charges against her were dismissed in court Thursday.

She is six years old, and Colorado law says "an infant under the age of 10 years shall not be found guilty of any crime or misdemeanor."

She was given a ticket by police after she rode a mini-bike, which moves about as fast as a power mower, in an alley near her home June 18. The girl was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a licence, inspection sticker and registration.

A tow truck took the bike to the police pound, where it cost the family $21.25 to retrieve it.

Dolly sat on the lap of her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Chavez, as Judge Dan Diamond dismissed the charges.

SASKATOON (CP) — I. J. Kent, 37, of Halifax, appointed city controller in May, has terminated his employment after one day in office, city officials said Thursday. Mr. Kent attended a city council meeting Monday and quit Tuesday. No reason for his resignation was given.

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Harvey Strom will meet Prime Minister Trudeau July 18 in Lacombe, Alta., during the last leg of the prime minister's tour of Western Canada. A spokesman for the premier's office said they will likely discuss grain problems and oil exports.

TEPEE TURFED

EDMONTON (CP) — A tepee and a couple of tents, symbols of alleged housing discrimination, were removed Thursday from the grounds of the Alberta legislature. A Cree couple, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Piche, said their camp-in accomplished its purpose—focusing public attention on the problems Indians have obtaining housing.

ECONOMY FALTERING

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government is reviewing its 1969-70 budget in an effort to cut spending because of a recession in the provincial economy. Provincial Treasurer D. G. Stewart said Thursday. He said government revenues would be about $12,000,000 less than the anticipated $365,000,000 due to falling farm incomes and reduced private spending.

Chretien To Tour Provinces On Ottawa's Plan For Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien said Thursday he will begin a tour of the provinces next week to consult Indians and provincial governments on the new federal policy on Indians presented to the Commons last month.

Mr. Chretien was peppered with questions in the Commons as opposition MPs also sought information on the identity of the commissioner who will investigate Indian grievances and the extent of his powers.

In the policy statement, Mr. Chretien announced that the government intends to eliminate the Indian affairs department within five years and turn over administration of Indians to the provinces.

He also announced that a commissioner would be appointed to look into Indian claims that their treaties with the white man had been breached.

Initial Indian reaction to the new policy generally has been unfavorable.

Gerard Laprise (Creditiste-Abitibi) asked the minister when he had any assurances that the provinces would accept responsibility for Indians.

Mr. Chretien said he would be negotiating with Indian associations and the provinces on the new policy.

Mr. Chretien also said that the government alone would make the appointment of the commissioner. He had talked with Indian representatives last week about the appointment and received their suggestions. But the appointment was the job of the government.

Replying to Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni), Mr. Chretien said the commissioner would not be a government agent. He would be working on behalf of Parliament, the Indians and the people of Canada.

He declined to detail the commissioner's terms of reference. These would be made known when the appointment itself was made—which would be "as soon as possible."

Commonwealth 'Needs Canada'

LONDON (CP) — Lord Carrington, Opposition leader in the House of Lords, says the old Commonwealth is worth preserving and the part Canada can play in this preservation "cannot be over-emphasized."

"With her enormous size, her enormous wealth, her as yet undeveloped potential, Canada is destined to become one of the great countries of the world," Carrington said at a Canada Club dinner.

He said he could not speak with the same hope for the new Commonwealth, with its expanding membership which included countries which had no freedom of speech or the observance of principles "on which the Commonwealth used to be based."

Cities And District Fight On Pollution

Volunteers Helped Fight Fire Chief Praises Teen Involvement

Community spirit and conscientious volunteer involvement was a big factor in containing a South Pandosy fire Wednesday, said Benvoulin Fire Brigade chief, Dan Wort.

"There must have been 25 teen-agers working along with firemen," he said, adding some 30 volunteer fire-fighters from Kelowna, Benvoulin and Okanagan Mission brigades were involved in fighting the blaze that caused heavy damage to the combined business of Dover Sales and Southgate Texaco. Affected to a lesser extent were Ray's Saddle and Shoe Repair, Andy's Wheel and Frame Alignment and Robertson's Clothing and Shoes.

A firewall between Southgate Texaco and Andy's Wheel and Frame Alignment proved "a big help" in containing the blaze, said chief Wort. "It was just a matter of looking after the roof," he added. Much of the stock of Dover Sales, which involved motorcycles, was saved by quick-thinking passers-by. Damage estimates by that firm, said chief Wort, should be slight.

Until official word from an investigator from the fire Marshall's office, no over-all estimate of damage is available, he added, heaping praise on both Kelowna and Okanagan Mission fire brigade members who helped prevent the fire from becoming a major conflagration. The Benvoulin brigade's equipment was supplemented by a pumper truck from Kelowna and a tanker from Okanagan Mission during the hour-long blaze first reported at 10:45 p.m.

Townhouse Issue Boils Again Bennett Says Discrimination

Charges of "rank discrimination" in pollution control were levelled against Kelowna and Penticton by regional district chairman, W. C. Bennett, Thursday.

Speaking at the Okanagan Basin Water Board meeting, Mr. Bennett said Okanagan cities discriminate against enterprisers who wish to dump sewage into Okanagan Lake privately but "welcome them with open arms" within the city disposal systems.

Discussion arose when the board lent its support to a Union Board of Health recommendation that Townhouse Developments be denied licence to dump 3,000 gallons daily into Okanagan Lake.

Kelowna Mayor, R. F. Parkinson reminded the board that his Council had also concurred with the board of health condemnation of the request.

"Would Mayor Parkinson oppose the measure if the apartment was in the city where it would dump the same amount of sewage into the lake through the city system?" Mr. Bennett asked.

"If the cities felt this way (that dumping into Okanagan Lake should not be allowed to increase) then they would stop apartments from going up within their boundaries; the way it is now its just rank discrimination because they are still going to be discharging the same amount of waste into the lake," he said.

Mayor Parkinson said the charges were "a little ridiculous" as city disposal systems were manned by trained personnel ready to handle any crisis 24-hours a day.

"If the small businesses get a permit to do this they will build a plant but it will not be maintained," he said.

Penticton Mayor Doug Stuart said it would be "extremely difficult" to control mini-sewage plants on the lake.

Both mayors said their cities were constantly looking into ways of reducing and better treating waste products dumped into the lake.

A proposal to bring the entire Okanagan valley into one system with sewage disposal of at a distance was even possible, Mayor Stuart said.

Townhouse Developments applied in January, 1968, to dispose the sewage from a 28-suite apartment into the lake, but were turned down by the B.C. Pollution Control Board.

The developers have also been involved in a long fight with Kelowna to obtain sewage and water facilities at the site, at the end of Watt Road. Their latest application has met with strong opposition from many fronts, including the city and the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber Suggests Sportsmen's Show

Kelowna should get one step ahead of the rest of the province and organize a sportsmen's show here, Reg Nourse, industrial commissioner for the chamber of commerce, suggested Thursday.

C OF C AT WORK

Good Spirits, Togetherness Promoted By Hiram Walker

A glow of pride was evident on the faces of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce directors Thursday as they discussed the Hiram Walker and Sons sod-turning ceremonies last week at the 160-acre Winfield site. "It was an occasion for people from up and down the Valley to get together and forget their differences," chamber manager Bill Stevenson said. A letter of thanks from the Hiram Walker officials was also on file.

A joint chamber-city dinner meeting has been postponed to the week of July 13 to 19. Various problems shared by the two bodies will be discussed at the meeting.

Invitations were received for a hovercraft demonstration to take place Aug. 12 at the beach near the Eldorado Arms Hotel. The demonstration, not open to the public, will show off the air-cushioned vehicle's abilities. "They're not selling, just demonstrating," the chamber was told.

Another plea from the Kelowna Regatta Association to the chamber to organize a booster group in the city before this year's show was referred to an earlier report. The city will have — and probably not before Regatta — a "boosters" group, which will "possibly lay the foundations for a full-fledged booster group, maybe next year."

chamber executive meeting, Mr. Nourse said "The first city in the central interior to do this will have a really good thing going for it."

"One of these days another city is going to snatch this idea up and then we'd have a difficult time getting a show going." He suggested an "exhibition society" — similar to the Regatta Association — made up of various organizations interested in promoting such a show.

The sportsmen's show would feature the latest in all kinds of sporting equipment, cars and other merchandise, and give sportsmen a chance to see various demonstrations, films and other promotional material.

The executive also decided to negotiate with the Southern Interior Construction Association, which has asked the chamber to join its plan room and bids depository system which stretches the length of the Valley.

Ray Busch, investigating the request, recommended the chamber take on the new duties but with a "few modifications" in the contract, which would be signed on a one-year basis.

He pointed out the chamber stands to lose about $400 per year due to present chamber members who would "have because of the new arrangements."

The Kamloops-based construction association also has arrangements with chambers of commerce in Penticton and Vernon to operate the services.

In other business Thursday, the chamber withheld decision on approving a plan to make Okanagan Mountain a Class A park until local enterprise could be heard from. The chamber set up a meeting at the request of the Okanagan Simi-meen Parks Society at city hall Thursday, but stressed approval would be reserved until after the meeting.

"One of our responsibilities is to protect private enterprise here," president Gordon Hirtle said, pointing out that the park classification would prohibit mining or lumbering of any description in the area.

He said he hoped representatives of these industries would be at the parks meeting to speak for their groups.

Kelowna will get world-wide publicity in a film to be made this year at Regatta featuring the Tommy Hunter show. The same company that several years ago produced Okanagan Safari will film the area again this year.

The number of meetings to be held by the executive during July and August will be left up to the chairman, the chamber decided. The group may not have a large enough agenda to warrant a weekly meeting.

The directors expressed anger that supposed pollution of Okanagan Lake is again in the news — and just as the tourist season starts. "This is two years in a row there has been a furor about pollution just before the tourist season," Mr. Hirtle said. He mentioned coverage in prairie newspapers given to Dr. Dave Clarke, medical health officer for the South Okanagan Health Unit, in which Dr. Clarke's remarks were so "derogatory" that several requests for his resignation had been heard here.

SEEN and HEARD

If you had to think of a funny sign to hang up at the championship dog show and obedience trials now taking place at Kelowna city park, what would it be? One of the dog fanciers had this idea—hanging near the show ring was a large painted sign which read: "Caution, here come da judge!"

Work is proceeding quickly on the massive clean-up job in Kelowna's City Park, at the site of the June 14 fire which destroyed the Aquatic complex. In addition to a large crew busy hauling away rubble and preparing the site for temporary fixtures, men are repairing such things as the Athans Tower and the Ogopogo Pool and floating stage in time for this year's Regatta, Aug. 6 to 8.

The wind was blowing hard off Okanagan Lake Thursday afternoon, but there were still many cars parked in the City Park. The attraction was the annual dog show and obedience trials sponsored by the Kelowna and District Kennel Club and the Kelowna Lions Club. The highly-prized pets, ranging from the smallest of tiny, to the largest of big, are always a popular summer park attraction.

No Licence, Two Weeks

A 14-day jail sentence, a $250 fine, and a two-month driver's licence suspension were imposed today on Kelowna man charged with driving while under suspension.

Samuel Harbison, who asked magistrate D. M. White if he could stay out of jail to help his wife with the children, entered a guilty plea Thursday and was remanded for sentence until today.

"I am being just as lenient as I possibly can be in this matter," magistrate White said in passing sentence.

Harbison was arrested Wednesday after he was caught driving his truck while under an RCMP roadside suspension for suspected impairment.

Fines totalling $300 and a three-month suspension were imposed on Gerald Larden, Kelowna, charged with failing to stop at a stop sign and driving without due care and attention. The latter charge resulted from a single-car accident on Knox Mountain Road, June 20, which demolished Larden's vehicle.

A second offence of driving without insurance while a minor brought a $100 fine and three-month suspension to Arnold Wigg, Kelowna, when he appeared in court today. He pleaded guilty.

Alvin Edmund Olson, Kelowna, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended for three months when he appeared in court today charged with impaired driving. He pleaded guilty.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McPherson, 335 Rose Ave., of the death of their nephew, Albert (Wobby) Biggs, who died while holidaying in England Thursday.

LACK INITIATIVE
HONOLULU (AP) — After a study, a team of researchers from the University of Hawaii's Population and Family Planning Unit reported that low-income island women "are not aware or ignorant of contraceptive methods and services." But they seem to lack either the initiative to start or sustained effort to be consistent users.

Government Forgets Okanagan Parks Group Asks Public Help

The Okanagan is being neglected by the provincial government in its plans for parks in the province, a citizen's group charged Thursday.

A proposal to establish a Class A park in the Squally Point-Okanagan Mountain area was presented by the Okanagan Simikameen Park Society Thursday.

During a meeting in city council chambers, the society discussed plans for park development with representatives of Valley chambers of commerce, yacht clubs, and interested citizens.

Vice-president of the society, John Woodworth, pointed out that the Okanagan has been overlooked by the provincial government in the location of parks, and for this reason the society hopes to spearhead plans of action in establishing provincial parks in the Valley.

The area in which the society is presently interested in having developed includes Norman Baker and Divide Lakes, the summit of Okanagan Mountain and Wild Horse Canyon. The Wild Horse Canyon and Okanagan Mountain, accessible only by jeep road or trail, lies less than 15 miles from the city centre of both Kelowna and Penticton.

Slides of the beach area and all possible spots for development of recreational facilities were shown in order to familiarize Valley representatives with

URGENT MESSAGES

Urgent family messages are waiting for two men believed to be in the Kelowna area.

RCMP are requesting assistance to locate Prescott Lewis, known to have resided in Kelowna, and Floyd Sippola, of Alberta, driving a lime green half-ton pickup truck licence number unknown. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of these men is requested to contact Kelowna RCMP.

TRAINING COMPLETE

Third class constable, B. R. Marshall, successfully completed recruit training at Mynarski Park last month and had been posted to Saskatchewan for duty. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Marshall, 1344 Mountainview St., Kelowna.

WATER BOARD SATISFIED

Hiram Walker Given Approval For Sewage Treatment Plans

Pollution control devices at the $30,000,000 Hiram Walker distillery at Winfield were given a clean bill of health by the Okanagan Basin Water Board at its regular meeting, Thursday.

The board heard reports requested at an earlier date from Kelowna and Penticton city engineers and the department of wildlife which said the control restrictions for the proposed plant were adequate.

The restrictions were contained in provincial permits which entitle the firm to dump refuse into ground sewage lagoons and Vernon Creek which flows into Wood Lake.

Board chairman, Penticton Mayor Doug Stuart said that while there are "a few" areas where he could recommend further monitoring programs, the pollution control program was good.

Control devices involve ground lagoons, cooling tanks, filters and monitoring devices for water and soil receiving the millions of gallons of treated waste.

A letter from the Kelowna city engineer suggested the distillery firm had overlooked a "catch device" to control the flow of alcohol from ruptured bottles or vats in the event of disaster.

The fish and game branch report said devices to control temperature and chemical waste in the 2,000,000 gallons per day which will be dumped into the Vernon Creek-Wood Lake waterway would be sufficient to protect fish and fish food.

Provincial inspector Fred Alcock suggested that for the firm's own protection it should finance a survey into the present condition of Wood Lake.

He said the lake is already in poor condition, possibly through natural aging, and a survey would ensure that Hiram Walker was not blamed for pollution which occurred before they commenced operations.

Board members agreed with Mr. Alcock's suggestion and one by the chairman that the board recommend a current federal-provincial survey of Okanagan Lakes be expanded to include Wood Lake.

Bring Back Diving Board

A valuable and much needed diving board has been removed from the rubble of the Kelowna Aquatic Club and recreation officials are begging the culprit to bring it back.

V.I.U. at more than $500 the board is the finest made and one of three in the province.

"It will be needed this summer for coaching boys and girls in competitive diving and for the junior and the international regatta competitions," Jack Brown, Kelowna recreation director said.

"Whoever took the board is asked to please return it or contact us and it will be picked up no questions asked," he added.

Another New Look At Regatta Planners Say Change Format

The Regatta is a good thing, but it should take an "objective" look at itself to define the purpose and direction intended in the next 20 years, says the Kelowna Advisory Planning Commission.

At a meeting held Thursday, the commission decided although the Regatta should continue as a focal point for community endeavor, the format should be reworked with varying perspectives.

The commission also questioned whether convention facilities should continue in Kelowna City Park, or if another location should be used within the urban renewal area. Discussion included the questionable wisdom of buildings near beaches, and whether the park should be retained as a "green belt" region.

Traffic and parking in the park was another discussion point, with the feeling there should be "no traffic" and that much of the black topping should be replaced by landscaped areas. The commission also felt an "objective" study of park requirements was "essential" including concession stand needs and change rooms related to the beach.

Concession stands, members thought, should not be re-built in a stationary design, but should be temporary mobile types which could be used for other events. The whole problem and future of the Regatta as well as City Park, is under commission scrutiny. One member is also on the mayor's committee studying the same problems.

Other commission business included a report by city planning director, Greg Stevens, on the Pridham Hill development. Concern was expressed by members on both the population density in that area and sewer servicing problems. Dave Davies and Dr. Harold Henderson, were appointed to study future apartment development in the Martin Avenue and Richter Street region following a directive from city council.

The meeting took time out to welcome a new member, Harold Fretwell, who succeeds Harold Long. Mr. Fretwell was introduced by chairman George Barnes. Attending the meeting was Ald. Ron Wilkinson.

Car Stolen Boat Found

Police are searching for a stolen car and the owners of an abandoned boat.

The car, a green compact convertible, was stolen while parked in front of a local hotel sometime during the night.

An Abbott Street resident reported a boat had washed into the beach in the area about 9 p.m. Thursday.

The boat is 14 feet long and grey.

CLOUDY conditions continue, with widely scattered showers predicted today and some overcast with a few sunny intervals on tap for Saturday. High and low Thursday was 73 and 54, with a trace of precipitation. Low tonight and high Saturday for Kelowna and district should be 45 and 70, continuing cool with light winds.

HOME OF SMOKE EATERS

Nearing completion, the new ranger station on Lochern Road in Ellison, is now in operation. The summer suppression crew, formerly housed at Scotty Creek, has its new headquarters at the station which is built on a nine-acre site. A three-building complex including bunk house, warehouse, and office, the station is headquarters for the Kelowna Forest District which stretches from Peachland to Winfield. Provision has also been made for a garage at the site. (Courier photo)

Short Takes

Someone splashed a strip of black paint on a car parked on Bernard Avenue in broad daylight last week. It's hard to believe no one saw the incident. Yet no one reported it to the police. No wonder the thieves and hoodlums can commit robbery and vandalism with impunity.

An irate shopkeeper grumbles that "Red Brand" and "Blue Brand" beef are misnomers. "Might better call them Gold and Silver brands," he says.

The past week has been a rather momentous one for Kelowna. There was the sod-turning for the Hiram Walker $30 million plant at Winfield; the announcement by the Comfort Manufacturing Company of Winnipeg that it was establishing a furniture plant across the lake and the announcement that Crown Zellerbach had purchased property in the city industrial area and would commence construction of its box plant immediately. All these things will play a role in broadening the economic base of the Central Okanagan. They mean jobs and steady payrolls.

To say that Prince Charles has endeared himself to people generally; old fashioned though it sounds, is nevertheless not far from the truth. His preliminary broadcast, his appearance in the Royal Family film, the excellent manner in which he handled himself recently on TV and the manner in which he carried through his part in the investiture all indicate that the person destined to be king has the makings of the man for the job. But living in a fish bowl for Charles, as for the rest of the Royal Family, must be difficult and bring moments of resentment and frustration.

There must be moments when only a very strong sense of public duty keeps the Queen going. (She must have been apprehensive all through the investiture day and heaved a sigh of relief when it was over). The Duke of Edinburgh, of course, has carved a niche for himself, and there is every reason to suppose that Prince Charles and his sister, Princess Anne, will be able to do the same. But while the Prince displays commendable interest and dedication at the age of twenty, will the enthusiasm survive until he is fifty? Probably it will. While our Royal Family—yes, our—performs as adequately as it does, republicanism is not likely to make much headway.

The most obvious and most publicized group to be hit by inflation is that on fixed income—pensioners, widows, etc. But inflation hits at industry too. If Canada's cost of production is high relative to its competitors, it must sell at a lower margin of profit. Moreover, when domestic prices are compared with those of merchandise imports, it is evident that prices in Canada have been rising more rapidly than those of imported goods. If this trend continues, along with a fixed exchange rate, it is obvious that domestic producers will lose much, if not all, of their competitive edge in the domestic market against imported goods. The inevitable result of this is fewer jobs.

Ultra-Tough Defence Law

(Victoria Times)

Thoughtful Americans are showing increasing concern over Nebraska's new ultra-tough self-defence law and wondering to what extent the attitude it represents may spread across their country. It has been briefly described as a law that would allow any citizen to use any means to protect himself, his family or another person from "imminent danger of criminal attack" and remove the risks to the citizen of placing himself in legal jeopardy for his action.

Fumes Smell Like Popcorn

(Christian Science Monitor)

The planes may have the films, but the buses may soon have the smell. A researcher at Georgia Tech claims to have come up with a catalytic converter which will not only cut the exhaust from diesel engines but will also make it smell like freshly popped popcorn. So the time may soon be at hand when your bus ride to the airport gives you the odors and the plane ride gives you the picture.

We suppose that such an invention is only to be expected in this topsysurvey world. Today is a time when the main trend seems to be to hide and confuse what once seemed plain and clear. In an era when girls dress like boys and boys like girls, and when automobiles are striped like bumblebees, exhaust which smells like popcorn is really quite logical.

Of course, we can think of a better switch. For those of us who tend to overindulge when we go to a movie, what would really be helpful would be to find popcorn which smells like diesel exhaust.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Doctor Takes View That Is Dim On This

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

My son is to be married soon. The girl he is to marry went to a doctor for examination and for birth control pills.

The doctor said she has a tipped uterus and that it is so severe she may need surgery, and it would be very difficult for her to become pregnant.—Mrs. K.K.

I take a dim view of "awful" predictions about what happens with a tipped uterus. It is quite true that the uterus in some cases is not at the usual angle, but is "tipped" in one way or another.

It is true also that this sometimes can interfere with pregnancy. However, over the years I have encountered so many cases in which the "tipping" caused no problems that I am very reluctant to jump to the conclusion that surgery is necessarily required. Many a woman with a tipped uterus has had no difficulty in becoming pregnant, nor with her sexual life, nor with delivery of babies.

Since in this case the bride-to-be went to the doctor for birth control pills, I gather that the question of pregnancy is to be postponed anyway.

My suggestion would be to do nothing about that tipped uterus now. If ultimately there is difficulty in becoming pregnant, that would be time enough to have something done about it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am female and 62, and have been given a diagnosis of high uric acid in the blood. The doctor gave me some medicine, probenecid, and said not to worry, the uric acid probably would not get any worse. In 30 days I am to have another blood test.—H.A.

Yes. Accumulation of uric acid in the system is what leads to gout. It also tends to form some types of kidney stones. Therefore, it makes sense for your doctor to give you medication to lower the level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does the word "smitch" mean? A small amount? A little? A bit? I can't find the word in any dictionary. You used it in your column. Is it a colloquialism?

From One as Much Interested in Good English. Almost, as in Good Health.

Webster's New International, second edition, page 2374, says it means "a bit; particle." It offers "smidgen" as a dialect.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter worries about her girl, age 12, as she uses so much salt, even ice water with salt in it. Please answer.—Mrs. P.R.

There is such a thing as "salt hunger" resulting from a disease of the adrenal glands, so I recommend that this child be examined, perhaps at children's hospital.

But if the salt-eating is merely a habit, which is often the case, she should start curbing it. The salt may not harm her now, but suppose in future years she has to avoid salt because of high blood pressure or some other reason?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a slight yellowish discharge from the navel? It only lasts about a day at a time. Could this be cancer?—D.K.

I see no reason to suspect cancer, but I do suspect some sort of lingering infection. See your doctor while it is still mild.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to eat or use eggs that have blood in the yolk? My husband and I disagree. Lately I have come across a good many, and it seems wasteful to throw them out.—Mrs. V.C.

This blood means that the egg has been fertilized. It is not harmful, but in a fried, boiled, or poached egg you may not like the spots for the spots of appearance. In scrambled eggs, omelets, or baked goods, the little specks of blood would not even be seen.

Note to J.S.: Yes, a good many children have diabetes—one recent survey set the number at 300,000 in the United States.

CANADA'S STORY

Halifax Businessman Founded Cunard Line

By BOB BOWMAN

Two of the world's most famous steamship lines, Canadian Pacific and Cunard, were founded by Canadians. However, not many people know that Samuel Cunard came from Halifax and made a fortune in lumber and sailing ships, before going to live in England.

The inspiration for the Cunard line came from the Nova Scotian, businessman Joseph Howe. He was crossing the Atlantic in a windjammer in 1838 when a steamer Sirius came over the horizon and passed his ship. Howe wrote "It went with the speed of a hunter while we were moving with the rapidity of an ox-cart."

He got in touch with Samuel Cunard when he arrived in London, and they took up the situation with the Colonial Office. The result was that the British government agreed to subsidize fast ships that would carry mail and passengers between Liverpool and Halifax. Samuel Cunard got the contract, and joined with other British businessmen to form the famous shipping company.

The first Cunarder was the wooden ship Britannia which arrived in Halifax on July 4, 1840, after a voyage of 12 days from Liverpool. Then the Britannia went on to Boston where Samuel Cunard received 1,800 invitations to dinner within 24 hours.

The first Cunarder was the Scotia, a ship of 3,871 tons. It would look like a tugboat alongside the 80,000 tonner Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth that were retired recently and have become floating hotels in the U.S.

Among the most famous Cunard liners of all time have been the Lusitania (sunk by a German submarine in the First World War), Mauretania (for many years the fastest ship on the Atlantic), Berengaria, and Aquitania (which was the flagship of the 1st Canadian contingent overseas in the Second World War).

OTHER EVENTS ON JULY 4:

1609—Champlain discovered lake in New York state named after him.

1634—Trois Rivières, Quebec, was founded.

1648—Trois Rivières destroyed Huron village at St. Joseph's. Father Daniel was killed.

1793—Alexander Mackenzie began walking from Fraser River to the Pacific.

1865—U.S. Consul read declaration of Independence at Cordova Bay, Victoria, B.C.

1873—Montreal Herald published letters that led to resignation of Sir John A. Macdonald government.

1880—First C.P.R. passenger train from Montreal arrived at Port Moody, B.C.

1905—House of Commons passed bill establishing Alberta and Saskatchewan as provinces effective September 1.

1911—Sir William Macdonald gave McGill University 25 acres of land on which football stadium was built.

1915—Canadian Army entered Berlin as part of garrison force.

BIBLE BRIEF

"His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."—Matthew 25:21

Contrary to what we sometimes think, we will be rewarded not for our success but on the basis of our faithfulness. "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

OTTAWA REPORT

It's Discrimination For Thunder Bay

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The Lakehead cities of Fort William and Port Arthur will be amalgamated into a single municipality as from New Year's Day next year, Fort William's MP, Bert Badanai, was telling me. Named Thunder Bay, it will become Ontario's sixth largest city, ranking after Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London and Windsor.

Port Arthur's population at the 1966 census was 48,340 and Fort William's population was 48,208. Add the two together, and Thunder Bay suffers a cruel discrimination, said Mr. Badanai. For in his budget speech last month, Finance Minister Benson announced that, as an anti-inflation measure, depreciation or capital cost allowance would be deferred for a period of two years on all commercial buildings "put in place up to the end of 1970" in cities with a population of 50,000 or more in Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta. A commercial building he defined as one used for wholesale or retail trade and services, an office structure, bank, financial institution, hotel, theatre or service station.

INJUSTICE TO LAKEHEAD

Merging the twin Lakehead cities into Thunder Bay will not overnight bring more jobs and greater wealth. Indeed the merger of the two municipalities into a single municipality with a population over 50,000 will attract Finance Minister Benson's punitive clause and hence hold back the creation of more jobs there.

So Bert Badanai, with the wisdom of a longtime MP, has as usual been to bat on behalf of his constituents, and indeed also for those of Port Arthur. He has made strong representations in the ministry of finance, to have the Lakehead exempted from this deferment of depreciation allowances. Further, Bert Badanai told me, he has approached the minister of regional economic expansion, Hon. Jean Marchand, with a view to obtaining for the Lakehead the special concessions available to those areas of Canada where economic development is lagging.

Ontario is a rich and prosperous province certainly, Mr. Badanai explained to me, but a very large province, and in all parts is industry expanding and new employment being created at a fast rate. On the contrary, its northwestern corner of 200,000 square miles is a slow growth area where there is considerable unemployment, both seasonal and among the thousands of Indians.

SHOULD BE PRAIRIE?

Mr. Badanai goes even further; he reasoned to me that the Lakehead and its northwestern hinterland is in the wrong province. It should have been a part of Manitoba; if it were, it would now be an important and busy commercial centre, the true Gateway to the West, far more prosperous and populous than as a forgotten part of Ontario. Populous—that's the word; the women of the Lakehead must go on doing their duty, says Bert; then their full cribs will bring full prosperity.

Fort William's MP outlined the Lakehead's cause in a speech during the budget debate. More effective, he has since presented the Lakehead's case personally to cabinet ministers and senior civil servants. He should succeed in obtaining exemption from the building penalties, at least on the grounds that Fort William was still Fort William when the budget was introduced, and its population according to the latest census was below 50,000.

In this battle for justice for his home town, Hubert Badanai was entirely in character—an industrious character long respected and recognized on Parliament Hill. He has served Fort William first for eight years as alderman, then for eight years as mayor and now for 11 years as federal MP—a record of service by an immigrant which not many native-born Canadians can boast. Further, as an MP he attends in the House of Commons and works on Parliament Hill with a regularity which few other MPs can boast; it is indeed a rare day when the House of Commons opens a session and Bert Badanai is not seated in his front-bench position of honor.

30 Guests Settled At Camp

The second session of the Okanagan Easter Seal Camp at Winfield is four days old and more than 30 handicapped guests are settled into the business of having a good time.

Located on 22-acres of prime Okanagan lakeside land, the complex has facilities for swimming, tennis and basketball, plus other sports activities.

Owned and operated by the B.C. Society for Crippled Children, the camp is financed by donations raised through Easter Seal Campaigns and supported by Lions Clubs and affiliates.

The purpose is to provide "an atmosphere of good fellowship, wholesome recreation, relaxation in natural surroundings and an experience which is different from the routine of school, hospital or home life."

Staff is maintained to provide attention necessary at a camp for handicapped and a registered nurse is employed to maintain adequate medical care.

Local doctors provide consultant services. Specially geared programs for handicapped holidayers include: trail riding and hiking, heated swimming pool, nature lore, supervised play area, campfire singalongs, fishing and boating, camping trips and cookouts, arts and crafts, films, drama and music and church services.

Mt. Kobau Site For Meeting

PENTICTON (CP) — Representatives of six Western Canadian universities met Thursday in a trailer atop nearby Mount Kobau to set up a consortium that will attempt to raise $10,000,000 to complete work on an observatory project. The federal government will now be told that a legal entity exists to take over the project and its $4,000,000 worth of assets, representing spending by Ottawa before it backed out of the telescope scheme.

Fund Quest Meets Success At Winfield United Party

WINFIELD (Special) — Visitors from as far away as Manitoba attended a garden party for the Winfield United Church Women, held here Saturday.

Supporters from Oyama and Kelowna attended the fete which was in the home of Mrs. F. W. Sneesby.

Unofficial estimates claim the party cleared more than $50 but as all contributions have not yet been received, the final sum will be reported at the next UCW meeting.

SIX MONTHS MORE AGASSIZ (CP) — Escapee Raymond Thom, 58, of Lytton, who was returned to Agassiz Mountain Prison Wednesday night, Thursday was sentenced to an additional six months for escaping custody. Thom was serving a life sentence for non-capital murder.

In other Winfield United activities, the junior and intermediate choirs of the Winfield United Church conducted a service of songs of worship here Sunday.

Under the direction of Mrs. Donna Day the choirs led the service with selections including some of the most familiar and popular hymns and songs of worship.

Mount Boucherie Activity Ends At Banquet And Meet

No definite plans have been made for new activities when the Mount Boucherie IODE resumes activities next season.

At the last regular dinner meeting of the women's organization, the only concrete activity planned was continuation of the Superfluity Shop in Kelowna Monday mornings and Wednesday evenings.

The shop is the club's main source of income.

Mrs. Diane Waldron and Mrs. Sylvia Pierron gave reports on the Newcomers' Coffee Party. The pair were co-conveners of the IODE-sponsored activity.

Mrs. Mary Taneda, educational secretary, reported on the graduation ceremonies at which VIVID DISPLAY LONDON (AP) — To advertise his hats, Harry Fox put six girls in his shop window on Carnaby Street wearing the hats and a few strategically placed feathers. As a crowd gathered, two policemen came by. "This is going a bit far, isn't it?" one asked. "No," said Fox, "it's a legitimate window display." After Fox refused to remove the girls from the window, police strode into the shop and drew a curtain. Fox, but not the girls, was taken to a police station. He was charged with obstructing the highway and fined $60.

MR. AND MRS. CYRIL TINLING
(Paul Ponich Studio)

FOR CITY BRIDE

Mother's Brooch 'Something Old'

Yellow mums, white daisies and mock orange and yellow daisies graced St. Paul's United Church for the June 21 wedding of Jean Margaret Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Malcolm Campbell, Abbott Street, and Cyril James Brace Tinling, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Tinling, Pandosy Street. Rev. F. H. Gough officiated, with Ernie Burnett singing The Wedding Hymn, accompanied by Mrs. Jean Gibson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white crepe empire waistline gown with wedding ring collar, elbow length bell sleeves and a floor-length flowing train. A four-tiered scalloped veil with a fifth tier the length of the train, fell from a white crepe headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Her mother's pink cameo wedding brooch was 'something old' and a blue garter completed the tradition.

Maid of honor, Cynthia Clark, Kelowna, and bridesmaids, Nancy Campbell, Edmonton and Mrs. Beverly Duregon, Kelowna wore gowns of pale yellow sparkling crepe, with full flowing chiffon back panels falling from the shoulder. Yellow ribbon roses were entwined in their coiffures.

Flower girl was Elizabeth Jane Campbell of Kelowna.

Best man was George Reginald Tinling, Kelowna and ushers were Ken Cole, Kitimat and Alexander Malcolm Campbell, Jr., Kelowna.

For the reception at the Royal Anne the bride's mother chose a white linen bordered with navy and white accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

The groom's mother wore a mauve turtleneck with white accessories and pink rose corsage.

For a honeymoon to northern points the bride changed to white tulle with full length lace panel and pink and white accessories. The newlyweds will reside on Saucier Road, Kelowna.

A three tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow and white rose decorations was flanked with yellow and white tapers in trostoria holders. Toasts were proposed by Silvine Duregon. Telegrams were read from Winnipeg, Toronto and a phone call received from Hawaii.

GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were: the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Campbell, Vancouver; Joseph Campbell and Steven, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reid, Gordon Halsey-Brandt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Murray and Joyce, Mrs. Emily Parsons, Sharon and Mavis Remple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sybulka, Francis Travis, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Templar, Coquitlam; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Vizi, Cloverdale; Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Winfield; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moynaux, Port Kells; Betty Reimer, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. W. Abel, Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Taylor and family, Okanagan Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Duggan and Jane, Armstrong; Mr. and Mrs. Don Timms, Peachland; Mrs. Sharon Woods and Norman Ottedal, Churchill, Man.

ANN LANDERS

His Master's Voice Doesn't Excite Poodle

Dear Ann Landers: If anyone doubts that there are an awful lot of nutty people in this world, they ought to read your column for one week.

The letter from that woman who telephoned her poodle long distance every night so he could hear her voice was the dumbest thing I ever heard of. She should have written him a letter. It would've been cheaper than a phone call and the dog would have gotten a lot more out of it.

Dogs recognize people by their scent. If the woman had run the stationery over her face a few times and handled the envelope, the poodle would have gotten the message. — DOG LOVER ALSO.

Dear Ann: I asked a poodle expert for his opinion and he said either way, it was no big deal for the dog. The master, not the hound, gets the pleasure out of the telephone calls.

Dear Ann Landers: Six months ago a friend of mine was placed in an impossible position and had to divorce her husband. Unfortunately, she missed her plane, returned home unexpectedly, and caught her husband with his secretary.

We all felt sorry for Bernice and have tried to include her as before. But she is becoming so pushy that our sympathy is turning to resentment. Bernice has cried on every male shoulder in our crowd. Last night she telephoned me at 8 p.m. and asked if she could share whatever we had for dinner. I said, "Of course." After we ate, my husband announced that he had a load of paperwork to do. Bernice looked stricken and said she needed to talk to him "privately." I went upstairs and left them in the den. They talked until 2 a.m.

This morning my husband was bleary-eyed and cross. At the breakfast table, in the presence of the children, he said, "Your friend Bernice is driving me loony and I don't want to get trapped by her again."

Shall I tell her bluntly that my husband has had 17-UP TO HERE?

Dear Up: Apparently your husband has vocal cords because he told you that Bernice is driving him loony. Suggest that he use those vocal cords to tell her himself. In the meantime, you can help by not allowing her to manoeuvre you. If she calls in the future to invite herself to dinner, tell her, "So sorry — we have family plans."

'Project Summer Headstart' Being Repeated Again In City

This is the third of three articles written by Lionel Wace of the Department of Social Welfare on the purpose and development of the headstart program for pre-school children.

The importance of correcting the effect of social and cultural deprivation for pre-school children is becoming increasingly realized. Sometimes the results can be quite dramatic. Dr. J. D. Griffin of the University of Ottawa tells a story in a report entitled "Techniques of Prevention in Public Education" published in 1967.

Mrs. Barbara Frum, a volunteer worker with the Canadian Mental Health Association, undertook to provide weekly pre-school experiences for a group of 15 children from a downtown Toronto area.

Dr. Griffin reported that these children showed all the usual signs of lack of intellectual, cultural and social stimulation. They were described as apathetic, non-verbal, incurious, disinterested and dispirited little children.

Every Saturday morning Mrs. Frum with two high school girls as helpers, collected these children and conducted essentially a nursery type school program. They consisted of visits to such institutions as a car wash, a fire hall, or a museum.

Dr. Griffin reported that "the results after seven months was an amazing growth of verbal, social and emotional vitality in these children."

The Canadian Welfare Council in a report of the school performance of 399 families receiving public assistance across Canada published in 1966 also clearly indicated that "disadvantaged" children have been found to possess significantly deprived intelligence as a direct result of adverse environment.

For this reason the council recommended compensatory action should be taken as early in a child's school history as possible.

Headstart programs are intended to place these children in more favorable environment through the use of nursery schools, day care centres and kindergartens.

Dr. Charles Stodgill, chief of Child Adjustment Services of the board of education in Toronto has noted that "it is important for the public to realize that the kindergarten child is gaining although he may not be learning to read, spell and so on."

There is increasing evidence that the early years of childhood, particularly for "disadvantaged" children, is a most critical point in the perpetuation of the poverty cycle. During these years the creation of learning patterns, emotional development and the formation of the individual expectations and aspirations take place at a very rapid pace.

For the child of poverty, there are clearly observable deficiencies which lay the foundation for a pattern of failure. Unless changed the pattern of poverty may well become built into the child's entire life.

Local plans will shortly be underway for a repeat of Project Summer Headstart in School District 23. It will be held during the months of July and August at two kindergartens.

Last year Summer Headstart was regarded as so successful with some 33 children from low-income families attending that it is hoped more children will take part this year. The Project will again be jointly sponsored by the Kelowna City Social Service and the district office of the Department of Social Welfare. This year Summer Headstart will however have a new dimension.

HITHER and YON

Mrs. Emilio Verna has returned to her home at Brookside Avenue, after two months in Vancouver General Hospital.

Visitors this week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall, Eldorado Road are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Mahon, and baby of Edson, Alta., and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hales of Edmonton.

Enjoying a two week visit in the Okanagan are Mr. and Mrs. David Horton and son John and daughter, Andrea of Vancouver, who are visiting with Mrs. Horton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaddes, Hobson Road.

Mrs. Tom Capozzi of Capozzi Road and Cameron, Cascia, Caron and Colin Capozzi returned Wednesday from a happy four days of raiding and exploring at the Quilchena Ranch, which was founded in 1908 near Merritt. Mr. Capozzi travelled to the ranch to bring the family home.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Toovey, Toovey Road were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wilder of Weyburn, Sask., who enjoyed a week long visit in the Valley.

Back from a six week trip to Eastern Canada are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hinks, 666 Patterson Ave., who visited with friends and relatives at Montreal, Flint, Mich., Camp Borden and Gravenhurst and other points in Ontario. They also visited at Winnipeg and Pinawa, Man., on their return journey.

Enjoying the summer holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Toovey, Toovey Road, are their son-in-law and daughter,

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rose and Teresa and Darren, all of Weyburn, Sask. Also enjoying a visit with the Tooveys is Mr. Toovey's mother, Mrs. Louise Toovey also of Weyburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Earl, St. Andrew's Drive, accompanied by Eric-Tait of Summerland, returned from a week's trip to Denver, Col. They enjoyed the Big Sky country in Montana and in Wyoming, and stopped at several points enroute.

Members of the Westbank Yacht Club enjoyed a July 1 cruise starting with a pancake brunch at the Pendozi, attended by more than 100 persons. The cruise stopped at a point near Wilson's Landing for a barbecue supper and the return trip in the early evening was a perfect ending to an enjoyable day. Other activities scheduled for members includes the regular Saturday night dance on July 19 and the Westbank Yacht Club's annual regatta on July 26 and 27.

DRASTIC MEASURE
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A maid thought the best way to smoke out a swarm of bees in a chimney was to start a fire in the fireplace. The bees clogged the chimney and a spark started a fire on the shingled rooftop of a Pacific Palisades home. Firemen estimated damage at $12,000.

Your First Class Dilemma.

Frankly, the menus on all our new DC-8 jet First Class Connoisseur Service flights of over two hours make it very difficult for you to make up your mind. But the dilemmas are delicious. Especially if your flight takes more than four hours. Having to choose between Canard à l'orange or Aloyau rôti and six desserts that include Soufflé à la Royale, Parfait à la menthe and Pêche au Brandy can be excruciating.

However, we make things as easy as possible. By giving you complimentary cocktails in our comfortable lounge. By offering you tantalizing canapés. By serving you fine imported wines and champagne. And by pampering you with luxuries like scented hot towels and rose petals in your finger bowl.

On Economy flights, too, Connoisseur Service is great. With Filet Mignon and Rock Cornish Hen competing for your attention. We've even added another stewardess to look after you.

Connoisseur Service is yours to enjoy. And it's yours on Air Canada only. Ask your travel agent to arrange your reservations. Solving dilemmas was never like this. Delicious.

DE MOLAY GROUP RETURNS TO KELOWNA

Given a standing ovation and acclaimed as one of the best shows ever to perform at the Community Theatre, on their visit two years ago, the California DeMolay show and band return to Kelowna July 24. The show will be jointly sponsored by the Kelowna Shrine Club, Bethel 25 Job's Daughters and Ogopogo Chapter DeMolay, and will feature such stars as Joan Mur-nane, soprano soloist; Steve Schultz, accordionist; Robert True, band leader and trumpet soloist; Kim Bailey, dancer, who appeared here two years ago. Augmenting these favorites will be newly auditioned performers including Debby Roberts and James Postak, vocalists; the dancing of Cathy Phelps; The Anthony Sisters vocal duo; the Mexican Brass Group, the Jerre

Curry dancers and many others. Here is the show's dancing line. "The best show professional or amateur," is a quote by critics who write for major California newspapers.

10 p.m.—Run For Your Life. 11:35 p.m.—Hollywood Theatre: "Kiss Me, Stupid" — Dean Martin, Kim Novak, Ray Walston, Felicia Farr. In Climax, Nev., Polly the Pistol and a housewife named Zelda prove a woman doesn't need muscles to throw her weight around.

Live Stones Wins Award

TOULON (AP) — Live Stones, a film about Eskimo art, that was produced by the National Film Board on Baffin Island in 1959, has won an award at the International Maritime Film Festival in this French city.

The film, which has been widely used in Canadian schools, won the prix du President de la Republique.

Produced by Tom Daley and directed by John Feeney, the 30-minute feature touches on the belief of Eskimos that their artists were supernaturally inspired.

It was first made in French with the title Pierre Vivant.

Millions Watched Royal Day

NEW YORK (AP) — There is really only one way to enjoy a parade or a pageant: get there early, find a good, comfortable location and stay through the whole thing.

Thanks to the three U.S. television networks and the CBC, Canadians and Americans on Tuesday could watch, from beginning to end, a medieval ceremony during which the 20-year-old heir to the throne was invested as Prince of Wales in ancient surroundings that at times looked like something out of Camelot.

The proceedings, flashed by satellites around the world from the ruins of a fortress in Caernarvon, Wales, was a repetition of rites that were centuries old, crusted with tradition and brilliant with color. The "highlights" carried later on the news shows could only hint at the brilliance of the whole. Viewers who saw the big show in black and white missed about half of it.

MOVING POMP

"Pomp, but moving pomp," Hugh Downs called it. There were almost two hours of ceremonies. The Royal Family turned out in force. Lords and ladies in full regalia marched in solemn procession. There were soldiers in flashing armor and proud plumed helmets riding spirited horses. Trumpet fanfares echoed from the castle battlements. The place seemed awash with red velvet, white ermine and gold.

A young prince with an engaging, shy manner—and cheeks pink with nervousness—was given the symbolic crown, sword, ring and sceptre by the Queen, his mother. The occasion was given some suspense by the off-camera threats of violence by a dissident Welsh group, and at one point viewers heard the sound of a gun going off.

Futz Producers Fined For Show

TORONTO (CP) — The producers of the controversial play Futz were convicted Monday of presenting an obscene performance.

William Marshall, Miles D. O'Reilly, Arthur Pennington and Jim Gerrard, who together make up Trio Productions Ltd., were each fined $250. Trio Productions, which defence counsel Julian Porter said had gone broke, was fined an additional $300.

Judge P. J. Bolsby, after a 45-minute review of the evidence, quoted the Criminal Code definition of obscenity and a Supreme Court decision defining the optimum community standard.

"People of this country do not wish the private intimacies between a man and a woman in the bedroom portrayed for public examination any more than the people of this country want to peer into the bedrooms of a nation," he said.

"There remains, as I sense it, a desire to retain an over-all climate of decency in which we may live as social creatures and raise and develop and educate our children."

The play, which opened March 15 and ran for 2½ weeks to near-capacity audiences, concerns a man named Cyrus Futz and his inordinate love for his pig, Amanda.

BREASTS BARED

It includes simulated sexual intercourse, a plethora of four-letter words and, in one instance, bared female breasts.

A number of defence witnesses, including theatre critics and one clergyman, said that by their definition the play is not obscene.

The defence witnesses viewed the play as a morality lesson, an allegory in which sex is not unduly exploited. They said in essence that the play has certain moral importance.

"I do pay respect to their special knowledge," Judge Bolsby said, "but if left to my own devices I could not see in it what they say is there."

He thanked the witnesses but added that if "opinions are expressed on a premise that is wholly invalid, then the opinion itself is worthless."

Vancouver Tours Discover New Places To Residents

By BARRY BROADFOOT

When visitors arrive from the Prairies or Eastern Canada and command me: "Show us Vancouver!" I invariably find we are discovering new things to see and do together.

It works both ways, of course.

They will want to see some sight they heard of back in Winnipeg or Toronto from a previous visitor to the city. Or I will decide to take them to some place I have heard about but never got around to seeing, even after 20 years of living on the Lower Mainland.

So Vancouver and district, in that sense, is a moveable feast, or, in another way, the sum of the parts always adds up to more than the whole pie.

For instance, two years ago a friend and wife and kids came out from Edmonton. He worked for the Canadian Pacific Railway, and he said he wanted to see the terminus of the railway, the Pacific end of all those thousands of miles of track. I thought hard, and then a soft little bell tinkled in my head. We drove down to the Bayshore Inn, parked and walked across the road and, lo and behold, there was a heavy bumper at the end of a single track. Not much to look at, but the end of rail. They all posed for pictures perched on the bumper, and I understand that visit was the hit of the trip, and the photos are a great conversational piece back in Edmonton.

You see, it doesn't take much to please some people, but the whole area, the Fraser Valley, Greater Vancouver, Howe Sound and the Sechelt Peninsula is such a treasure chest that if you can't please visitors, then they should have stayed at home.

Some want to go fishing for salmon. I send them out to Horseshoe Bay where they can rent a boat for several hours for about eight dollars. I know the marina attendants will fix them up with equipment, and tell them how to troll, and I cross my fingers.

Or they want to climb mountains. Everyone crawls before they walk, so I send them up Grouse Mountain in the skyride with a haversack lunch and they spend all the sun-filled day roaming the trails and alpine slopes and they have something to talk about all winter long.

Swimming, lying on the beach, girl watching? That's almost too easy. Point them at 10 a.m. in the direction of English Bay or Jericho or Spanish Banks, or send them out the Deas Thruway to Crescent Beach or White Rock and you can forget about them until dinner time.

Whenever I can, I take my friends to Stanley Park and give them my own super-duper tour. A day long, it involves a visit to the aquarium, gawking at Skana the killer whale, a ride on the fascinating train, a tour of the zoo with long stops at the polar bears and otters, a meal from one of the concession stands, an easy rowboat tour of Lost Lagoon, an hour's stroll through those shady cathedral-aisled paths where, alas, so few go, a trip through the greenhouses, and then a leisurely drive around the park on the way out. This is one of the world's great parks.

Johnny Cash Owes $82,000 For Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Johnny Cash owes the U.S. government $82,000 because of a 500-acre forest fire attributed to a faulty exhaust system in his camper truck. The U.S. attorney's office said Wednesday it accepted the amount—payable over five years—in a stipulated judgment. Officials said Cash was negligent while operating the truck in the Los Padres National Forest in 1965 and failed to notify authorities quickly when the fire went out of control.

Capitalism . . . By Belafonte

TORONTO (CP) — Entertainer Harry Belafonte says black capitalism is an empty idea.

In an interview Friday, Belafonte said black capitalism will never be fulfilled "until they let us have ownership of means of production, control of the corporate structures in America."

The U.S. singer and actor is making a three-week appearance at O'Keefe Centre.

"It's not black capitalism unless we own A.T. and T., the cartels, the factories. That's black capitalism."

"I am not a black capitalist. I own a production company, and when we have a project, we produce. I don't own the medium. I'm not 20th Century Fox. I happen to be a very middle-class man."

"The system has been seriously challenged, but nothing has changed. The inequities and injustices are the same. All that has happened is that the system has developed more sophisticated weapons, means of protecting itself."

"We work our tails off to make the system change and we find it can't. It's not just details—an infected finger—that must be dealt with. It's the body of the system. The American constitution could work in a multi-racial society."

Johnny Carson Makes A Mint

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson has signed a multiple-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. that is reported to make him the highest paid entertainer in television history.

Industry sources guessed that Carson, host of the Tonight show, might be earning up to $85,000 a week over a two- or three-year period. He received $1,000,000 a year under his old contract.

Don Durgin, president of NBC-TV, said Tuesday that Carson got "a good increase and one that I think he richly deserved." He declined to disclose the terms of the contract.

BITES SNAKE

STILFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — Norma McMyler heard her 18-month-old daughter making a spitting sound in the next room and found the youngster holding a deadly puffadder. The child had bitten the snake and was making a face to show she didn't like the taste. Mrs. McMyler knocked the snake out of the child's hand and quickly killed it. The child was unharmed.

Difficulties Face Morality Squad

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP) — The Quebec Association of Police and Fire Chiefs has recommended that the Quebec government set up a board to control obscene literature.

The association, acting on a study committee report, said such a board should be similar to the Alberta advisory board on objectionable publications.

The report said that of obscenity boards studied, only Alberta's acted to control objectionable publications before their sale.

Obscene publications should be eliminated by the Quebec board, the association said, and attention should be drawn to the public on the dangers to youth of obscene publications.

Jean-Paul Gilbert, Montreal's police director and secretary-general of the association, said there is an escalation of obscenity in Quebec.

"We're on the threshold of theatre plays in which actors completely undress themselves on stage."

He said it is difficult now to stop such acting "when we already tolerate it on film."

MUSEUM NOTES

Yes-No Opinion About Old Days

By PRIMROSE UPTON

Were the good old days so good? In some ways yes — people had to work hard for everything — to exist, to eat, to be warm — no fairy godmother waved a wand and supplied things. All members of the family had to pitch in and help. Children were expected to haul water, clean and trim lamps, chop kindling and wood and fill the woodbox. Boys learned early to help their fathers with blacksmith, carpentry and farm chores — girls learned early to sew, cook and help with the thousand and one other chores which seemed to mushroom up in everyday life.

Every day in the museum we see faces light up with nostalgic memories — a middle-aged woman smiles as she looks at a lovely old hanging lamp, "We had one just like that back in Ontario." An old man comes away from the forge beaming with memories, "You're missing one set of tongs. I think I have a pair at home. I'll bring them along for you sometime." An elderly woman tells us that memories came flooding back with a great number of the exhibits.

People had to be resourceful and hard working. There were the shiftless and the lazy, of course, as in every era through history — but on the whole possibly people were happier than they are today. It was necessary to work hard to survive. No flick of a switch would turn on the radio or television to provide entertainment — people supplied it themselves. A fiddle or banjo player was always in great demand, as was anyone who could play the piano or the organ, or lead in singing.

No, I'm sure we wouldn't want to go back to the wood stove, with its demanding firebox, and ever present ash box waiting to be emptied — or the outdoor plumbing at 25 below zero (in the sunny Okanagan!), those awful washdays with the scrubbing board and grandma's lye soap, the cream which was "ripe" for churning with monotonous regularity, the several mile trek to the mill thrice weekly. However, there were compensations — the quilting bees, the barn-raising, the coyote hunts, the tennis games, getting the outdoor skating rink

Author Wins A Gold Medal

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Hailey, author of the novel Airport, has been awarded the gold medal of the Commonwealth Club of California for the best fiction written by a California author in 1968. Airport was published in March, 1968, and was on best-seller lists for months.

Born in England, Mr. Hailey, 48, was working in Toronto as sales promotion manager for a truck company when his first television play, Flight Into Danger, met instant success in 1950.

ACTOR LEAVES $250,000

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Actor Boris Karloff left an estimated $250,000 in property here, it was disclosed Friday during a probate hearing in Manhattan Surrogate Court. The actor directed in his will that his American property be passed to his wife who lives in London. Karloff died Feb. 2 in Sussex, England.

Sammy Davis Disarmed

LONDON (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. flew in from Los Angeles today and had a revolver and ammunition confiscated by customs.

He said: "I have a permit to carry a gun in America but the customs informed me that the laws are different here, and quite rightly so. I hate the idea of having to carry a gun to protect myself in America."

Davis is here to make a movie. Customs told him he can have his gun back when he leaves.

LANCASTER DIVORCED

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Norma Marie Lancaster, wife of actor Burt Lancaster, obtained divorce decree Friday in Superior Court. Mrs. Lancaster charged the 56-year-old actor with extreme cruelty in her May 28 divorce suits. They were married 23 years and have three teen-age daughters.

Plot For MGM Ridden By Debt

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film world recently learned the seriousness of MGM's financial plight. The one-time giant may suffer a $19,000,000-loss for the year ending Aug. 31.

Obviously the new management of MGM faces a challenge in restoring the company to fiscal health. Also quite obvious is that many things went wrong with the MGM operation to cause such a loss.

How could a film company lose $19,000,000 when many of its competitors were prospering as never before? The answer lies deep in the embattled history of MGM.

There was a time when preview audiences applauded at the mere appearance of the lion at the beginning of a surprise showing, because they knew they would be seeing a film of quality. That was in the era when Irving Thalberg was brilliantly directing the production fortunes of the Culver City studio while Louis B. Mayer supported him on the business end.

After Thalberg's death in 1936, Mayer took complete charge. He built the biggest stable of stars in Hollywood history. While the films were not the same quality attractions that Thalberg had made, the company flourished by its very bigness through the war years and into the post-war period.

HIT HARDEST

The troubles that assailed the film industry in the 1950s hit MGM hardest. In the face of a falling market MGM became the "beached whale." Mayer was deposed, then his successor, Dore Schary. The company went through a series of management changes, none of them improving MGM's condition.

Robert H. O'Brien became president of MGM in 1963, when the company's loss was $17,500,000. MGM climbed back into the black, but its real ills were not remedied.

One independent film-maker said: "MGM has always been resistant to change. The studio was slow to realize that sound movies were here to stay. Mayer would have nothing to do with television. MGM lost all its stars because it refused to cut them in on the profits when most other studios were doing so."

"Even the more recent managements of MGM were slow to make the kind of participation deal that would attract top talent. So the best film-makers went elsewhere."

Another film observer comments: "The real downside for MGM came when all authority was shifted to New York. No one at the studio was empowered to make decisions, and the lack of decisiveness made it almost impossible to make deals."

As a result, the town's biggest studio remained a huge expense while its 30 vast stages stood empty most of the time. The television division, which had once thrived with Dr. Kildare, The Man from U.N.C.L.E. and other series, came to a halt. Even the record division started showing losses, despite a thriving music market.

FILMS MISFIRE

Most damaging of all were the grosses from movie releases. Except for such rare successes as Blow-up and The Dirty Dozen as well as the re-release of the tried-and-true Gone with the Wind, the MGM movies misfired. Many of them have been European-made films of little appeal to American audiences (The Appointment), exploitation films (The Green Slime) or overworked formula (Elvis Presley vehicles).

Having enjoyed past success with such road shows as Ben-Hur and Dr. Zhivago, MGM attempted other big films with disappointing results—Far from the Madding Crowd, Where Eagles Dare, Shoes of the Fisherman. Even the hit 2001: A Space Odyssey has been slow in paying off because of its immense cost.

MGM now has a new management with Edgar M. Bronfman as board chairman and Louis F. Polk as president. They come from the liquor and food business, respectively, and film observers wonder if they will be able to fathom the uniquely erratic nature of the movie industry.

Such observers see hope in the appointment of Herbert F. Solow as studio chief, with more power than his predecessors enjoyed. He is 38, a former agent with experience in TV production. If he can entice film-makers to cast their lot with MGM, perhaps Hollywood's beached whale can float once more.

HONORS HERO

The story of RCAF Second World War hero, Andrew My-narski, V.C., of Winnipeg, will be told on a CBC television show The Young, The Quick and the Lucky.

Success Spoiled Actress's Fun And Even Caviar Is Shunned

NEW YORK (AP) — "Success robs you of a lot of fun," said Jacqueline Susann, the television actress turned author. "When I was 18 I used to dream of being able to eat caviar every day of my life."

"Now I can't eat caviar at all because it makes me fat."

However, Jackie, the current sensation of the U.S. publishing world, can afford to buy caviar by the barrel if she chooses to.

Her first novel, Valley of the Dolls, sold more than 350,000 hard cover copies and more than 10,000,000 in paperback.

Her second, The Love Machine, threatens to equal or surpass Valley of the Dolls as a best seller. Within a few days after publication some 300,000 copies had been printed.

Miss Susan also has received a $250,000 advance against expected paperback royalties, and she and her husband, Irving Mansfield, the television producer who acts as her business adviser, have turned down a million-dollar offer for the film rights.

USES SEX

The Love Machine details the rise and fall of Robin Stone, a brilliant and ruthless television executive. It is sprinkled with lively sex episodes, as was Valley of the Dolls.

Jackie vehemently resents any implication that these episodes are put in merely to satisfy reader curiosity about the boudoir behavior of celebrities.

"I have never been clinical in a sexual description," she insisted. "Whenever I use sex, it is not for a prurient reason, but because it advances the plot and the story."

She expects that many long-haired critics, anguished by her spectacular popularity, will leap with alacrity upon the prose of her new novel, just as they did upon Valley of the Dolls.

"One critic has already written that my book will sell like popcorn at a children's matinee," she said, smiling. "But it's the public that buys books, not critics."

"Anyway, I don't worry about what the eggheads say. I'm not interested in being a literary novelist. I'm interested in telling good stories."

"I don't think there is any room for literary essayism in a novel today. That only holds up the story."

"A novel isn't a soapbox for the writer to express his views."

I think of the novel as an extension of life, enabling the reader to become familiar with kinds of people he might never get to meet any other way."

Using only one fast-flying finger on each hand, Miss Susann can type out as many as 30 pages in a daily work session that lasts from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

She methodically re-writes each novel four times, using a different colored paper for each draft.

Already she has turned out 400 pages of her first draft of a third novel, tentatively entitled The Big Man. In it, she said, she will explore again her basic theme—"how bare life is at the top among people who have lost the essential ability to communicate with other human beings."

Three Greek Police Officials Named As Master Torturers

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Three high police officials were named "master torturers" of Greece's dreaded Averoff prison by women prisoners who smuggled out a secret report describing in detail how 15 young women were whipped, beaten, kicked and burned during endless interrogations, the Danish national news agency said.

The agency said the report, addressed to the European Council's Human Rights Commission in Strasbourg, France, was brought to Denmark by a Dane who helped the women prisoners smuggle the document out of the prison in Athens.

In almost all 15 alleged cases of torture quoted in the report, the agency said, the same three names figured prominently: Police Inspectors Angelopoulos and Kouvas, Vice-Police Inspector Jannoutsos.

The women prisoners said one or all of these men almost invariably either ordered, took part in, directed or watched the torture of women political detainees.

The agency said the report described how young women, naked and sometimes tied, were forced to stand for hours in the snow in the prison yard while water was poured on them at intervals.

One woman prisoner went through this and then was burned all over the body with cigarettes and hot irons, beaten with metal wire under the soles of her feet and finally forced to walk in the snow back to her cell, the agency said.

Alaska Route Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $6,000,000 study of a proposed rail and highway corridor to mineral-rich northern Alaska is being considered by the U.S. transportation department.

A spokesman said the allocation has been requested by Federal Railroad Administrator Reginald Whitman.

If Transportation Secretary John Volpe approves, the money will be available for a study of the proposed 400-mile extension of rail and road systems to above the Arctic Circle.

The proposed corridor, urged by an Alaska committee, would give access to the North Slope petroleum fields and other mineral-rich areas.

Volpe plans to inspect the North Slope area during an Alaska trip Aug. 20-30 and may also fly over the proposed transportation corridor.

In April, Volpe addressed the Commission for Northern Operations of Rail Transportation and Highways (NORTH), a transportation specialist group.

PROMISED TO HELP

Volpe promised NORTH several weeks ago that his department would "assist in every possible way to establish an adequate transportation system in Alaska."

He said the Alaska Railroad, begun in 1915, "never really went as far as Congress intended."

The railway was authorized to extend from an ice-free south Alaska port 1,000 miles into the interior, but it runs only 544 miles from Seward to Fairbanks.

There has been considerable development along the completed railway and much more would result from its extension, Volpe said.

NORTH and Gov. Keith H. Miller of Alaska want the railroad extended from Fairbanks to the Arctic.

The route they favor would go from Fairbanks to the Yukon at Tanana, then to Alutka. From that point, one spur would run northwest toward the Kobuk River, another north through Anaktuvuk Pass to the North Slope.

N. Korean Spy Hanged In Seoul

SEOUL (Reuters) — North Korean spy-journalist Soo-Keun Lee, arrested in Saigon after a flight from here in January and sentenced to death by a Seoul court in May, has been hanged in a prison.

Lee, 45, former vice-president of North Korea's central news agency, crossed the border at the armistice village of Panmunjom, March 22, 1967, and was rushed out in a truck of a United Nations command armistice officer in a hall of pistol fire from Communist guards.

The Seoul district court, passing a death sentence for him May 10, said he pretended defection to come south as an undercover agent under instructions from the North Korean Labor (Communist) party.

Wearing an artificial mustache and a wig, Lee slipped out of Seoul with a forged passport Jan. 27. He was stopped in a scuffle with South Korean officials at Hong Kong Airport Jan. 29.

Hong Kong police allowed him to take a Phnom Penh-bound flight, but he was arrested by South Vietnamese police during a stopover at Saigon and flown back here to face trial. He did not appeal.

IDEA REJECTED

NEW HOLSTEIN, Wis. (AP) — The signs "Hildegard Lane" were all painted and ready to be erected on a new street during the homecoming for the entertainer who was born Hildegard Loretta Sell in 1906 in nearby Adel and lived in New Holstein until she was 12. Then the City Council voted against the proposed street name. Opponents said it might be a bad precedent since, they said, this farming community has many natives deserving of street-naming honors.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West North East South
1♦ 1♠ 2♠ 3♠

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

- ♠A J 7 2 ♥8 ♦Q 6 4 ♣K J 9 8 3
- ♠10 ♥9 8 3 ♦8 7 5 3 ♠A K 9 6
- ♠Q J 8 5 ♥Q 7 6 4 ♦6 ♠A Q 8 3
- ♠J 7 6 ♥J 8 5 ♦A J 3 2 ♠K Q 7 4
- ♠J 4 3 ♥K Q J 8 7 5 2 ♦10 ♠A K 6

1. Three clubs. North's double shows the values for an opening bid and support for at least two of the three available suits. This hand is consequently likely to produce a game, though the final contract is uncertain at the moment.

One way of assessing the hand is to imagine that partner has opened as dealer, either with a club or a spade. You would surely press on to game in such case, which is what you are doing when you jump to three clubs. You bid clubs ahead of spades to show their greater length. You will probably get the chance to bid spades later and thus pinpoint a four-card suit.

2. One heart. It is true that this response does not identify any strength, when actually you do have some values, but this hand does not justify a jump response. If partner does not bid over one heart, there is very little hope for a game.

Note that the response is one heart, not two clubs. You are far more interested in finding a heart fit than a club fit, for major suit games are easier to make than minor suit games.

3. Two diamonds. Game is extremely likely opposite the double, but it would be inadvisable to make a jump response in any of our four-card suits. Rather than guess which suit would serve best as trump, you force partner to choose it by cuebidding the opponent's suit.

4. Two notrump. Here the most promising game contract is notrump rather than a suit, and you inform partner of this by jumping to two notrump. With 12 high-card points facing a double, you must take a very risky view of your game prospects. The lack of major suit strength is no bar to the jump response, since partner's strength is marked with both length and strength in those suits.

5. Four hearts. There is no use pussyfooting when it is obvious that the best contract is four hearts and that a delicate approach is unnecessary. Furthermore, the jump to game has great descriptive value, since it emphasizes distribution instead of high-card strength and thus enables partner to judge what action to take. If the opponents bid again.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Saturday's stellar influences suggest caution in all matters. Be especially careful if traveling and do not exceed your budget by yielding to extravagant whims. During the P.M., avoid needless arguments.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart promises some pleasing developments in both your personal and business life during the coming year. Start making plans for taking advantage of fine opportunities which will be available in six weeks — where both career and monetary interests are concerned — since excellent rewards for your efforts are slated between late February and the latter part of March and the entire months of May and June. Don't offset gains, however, by engaging in speculation in late September or in late October, or by indulging in extravagant whims during the latter half of December or the first two weeks of April. Rather, retrench — a bit during these periods since you may be faced with some unexpected expenses.

Look for happy personal relationships throughout most of the next 12 months, with strong emphasis on romance during October, next April and June. Most propitious months for travel and making valuable contacts through social activities, October, January, April, May and June.

A child born on this day will be endowed with the talents required to succeed in the field of medicine, as an historian, archeologist or financier — depending on his inclinations.

Rainmaker Bucket Tested To Fight B.C. Forest Fires

A fibreglass-bucket device capable of carrying up to 115 gallons of water will be helicopter tested soon by the B.C. Forest Service.

Named the Rainmaker, two of the beehive-shaped units are now here from the United States for experiments. With such buckets, helicopters hover over lakes, rivers or other waterways and scoop up water for dumping on forest fires.

The Rainmaker weighs 80 pounds, and a system of removable plugs enables it to carry—by actual measurement—loads varying from 40 to 115 gallons. Because of this feature, it can be used by various sized helicopters.

Forest Service Protection Division authorities describe the new unit as a major improvement over the present widely used "monsoon bucket" which has a maximum capacity of 45 gallons, with no means of decreasing the amount of water carried.

The new unit measures about four feet in diameter at its top, tapering to about two feet at the bottom, with a height of less than three feet.

An enclosed motor on top of the unit allows the helicopter pilot to control the flow of water as it's being dumped.

W. C. (Cy) Phillips, chief of the protection division, said one of the units will be tested next week in the Prince Rupert Forest District, and the other in the Prince George region.

Liverpool Docks Busy Once More

LONDON (AP) — Liverpool dockworkers voted today to end a five-day wildcat strike and return to work Monday to clean up a backlog of exports worth millions of pounds.

The 9,620 dockers accepted an agreement reached by union leaders and management. The strike had tied up 84 ships.

The men walked out Monday over an agreement negotiated by the Transport and General Workers Union on the handling of cargo at a big new dock for container traffic. This pact provided that non-dockworkers from another union sector with a higher unemployment rate could be used on the container dock.

Noise One Of Ingredients For Rocky In Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Firecrackers and scattered gunfire resounded through the almost deserted streets as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller attended a dinner in his honor at the National Palace.

After meeting with Dominican leaders Thursday the New York governor leaves for Kingston, Jamaica, the next stop on his Latin American fact-finding tour for President Nixon.

Despite the most extensive security measures since the 1965 Dominican civil war, occasional shots could be heard in various parts of the capital, but no casualties or damage were reported.

Streets in the downtown area, stronghold of the constitutional rebel forces during the 1965 revolt, were empty Wednesday night. Coffee shops, restaurants and stores—usually open at night—were shuttered.

George Washington Avenue along the sea, usually clogged with people seeking a respite from the summer heat, was dark and deserted except for armed patrols.

Some of the few Dominicans in the street said the shutdown was in "retribution" of Rockefeller's visit, but signs of trouble and armed patrols often have emptied the city's streets in politically tense moments.

There were persistent reports during the past week of anti-Rockefeller demonstrations, but the only public opposition was expressed by Santiago taxi drivers, who went on strike to protest the visit.

Upon his arrival from Haiti, the neighboring country on the island of Hispaniola, Rockefeller told a crowd at the airport:

"As governor of the state of New York, I feel a special kinship to the Dominican people. In fact, there are more Dominicans in the city of New York than in any city in the world with the exception of Santo Domingo."

Spectators lined the route into the city, but the governor got no applause or cheers on the way. "Death to Rockefeller" and "Out Rockefeller" signs were painted on some walls. There were a few welcome signs.

After Jamaica, Rockefeller will take his mission to Guyana, where police broke up a "Rocky go home" demonstration at the U.S. embassy Wednesday and arrested nine members of the Progressive Youth Organization.

SLIPPERS OR JAIL

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — Ursule Unterwiesing, an attractive 39-year-old widow, got a suspended 10-day jail sentence for treading on a downstairs neighbor's right to domestic tranquility. The neighbor testified that she stamped around in high heels at all hours. Slippers or jail, said the judge.

HE WAS TAXED TO THE LIMIT

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — Fred Faller gave the municipal tax collector the shirt off his back.

Mr. Faller, 50, handed over his shirt to protest property taxes of $530.64.

He said he went to the tax office with 64 cents and 530 dollar bills in a brown paper bag.

"They refused to accept the money and asked me to wait until 10 other people waiting had been dealt with first."

"Then I asked them if they would take a cheque. The clerk said 'yes' so I took off my shirt."

"I had a cheque printed on the shirt for the exact amount and I just signed it. They took the shirt."

We prove our cars the hard way to make them worry-free

We've taken our Datsun 1600s over some of the roughest roads and through the toughest rallies to make one thing certain: that Datsun 1600s are more dependable than any other cars in their class. Datsun won the Canadian Rally Championship in 1967. Datsuns won two classes in the Shell 4000 Rally/68. And this year, Datsun 1600 won the South African Gold Fields Rally. It also won team class honours in the rugged East Africa Safari Rally, where a field of 87 cars started and only 31 finished. Datsun 1600s came in 3rd, 5th, 7th, 8th, 11th, and 13th. They have muscle. Their advanced design overhead cam engines turn out 96 hp. They can go 0-60 in 13 seconds and up to 100 mph. And they go up to 35 miles per gallon.

Mercedes-Benz, BMW and Datsun 1600 have a similar all-independent suspension system for precise handling and perfect control. There are disc brakes, a collapsible steering column, headrests, safety harnesses and padding inside. All standard equipment.

Test drive Datsun 1600 soon. There are more than 160 Datsun dealers coast-to-coast in Canada and over $1,000,000 in parts to back it wherever you go.

HEATHER BRADSHAW WITH KUSHI AND AWARDS

Kelowna Pony Continues To Bring Home Honors

Pony of America, Co-Po's Kushi, owned by the R. L. Bradshaw family of Beavonlin Road, walked off with top honors at the Abbotsford All-Kanata horse show recently.

Kushi won the stallion class, champion stallion, English pleasure, second in showmanship and western pleasure and picked up two fourths in games.

In May at Chilliwack, the Bradshaw pony, won the overall grand champion Kanata pony class. This is the top award for Kanata shows.

The Bradshaws bought the horse just over a year ago from a Southern Washington stable and in that short period have picked up honors with him wherever they showed in Canada.

TOURED U.S.

Kushi toured several U.S. circuits over a period of a year before coming to Canada. In the United States competition is much keener as there are at least 10,000 registered F.O.A.S. ponies but Kushi managed to rank number 3 in the three-year-old halter stallion class in 1967.

Coast show sponsors know that the Bradshaw pony is one of the best and they send personal invitations to the Bradshaws to all their shows. The judge at the Abbotsford show remarked at the end of his judging that he was amazed at the wonderful disposition the Kelowna pony had.

When the Bradshaws first brought the horse to Kelowna they had a rough time with him and the reason for that they found was he had to have confidence in his trainers before he would respond to orders.

This the Bradshaws accomplished and from then on it was easy going. "Kushi has a million dollar disposition," said Mrs. Bradshaw, "and as soon as we gained his confidence he was turned over to our daughter for the balance of the training."

Heather, 12, trains and rides the horse without any help. Her parents are the grooms and arrange for the showings.

Heather feels that the pony has yet to reach his limits, "just coming on," she said. "There is no end to what Kushi can do," she added.

At the end of the month the Bradshaws are taking Kushi to shows in Washington and Montana. They feel that the pony will more than hold its own against the highly-touted

U.S. ponies and with Heather in the saddle more trophies are expected to be placed on their mantle.

They also have a show mare that has taken part in local shows as well as on the coast, but Mrs. Bradshaw, who handles the mare, feels she should give her time to the stallion with its great potential.

Royals Down Stylers 5-1 'Going Away'

Kelowna Royals knocked in five runs to win going away in an Okanagan Senior B Softball game, Thursday against Stylers in Kings Park.

A three-run fifth inning gave Royals a lead they never lost and single runs in the fourth and seventh were answered by one run only from Stylers.

Shortstop Ed Sehn blasted in a home run in Royals big fifth inning.

Base hits brought in Stylers third-baseman John Ross in the fourth for Stylers only run. Stylers pitcher Don Schmidt gave up only five hits and Gib Loseth, who went all the way for Royals, gave up six.

Royals will meet Carlings, Monday at Kings at 7:30 p.m.

Extra speed attractions and a "youth movement takeover" are in store for stock car racing fans at the Billy Foster Memorial Speedway Saturday night.

In addition to regular racing action, officials of the Okanagan Track Racing Association have lined up two special features.

Both will probably appear right after the time trials, before the first race at 8 p.m.

The first special event will be an attempt at the B modified track record of 17.2 seconds, held by Drew (the Laughing Stock) Kitsch. The speed run will come from Bruce Jorgenson of Vernon, with the wildest converted snowmobile ever seen on a stock car track. The "off-set special roadster" packs only 34 cubic inches, but has already cracked 20 seconds, without being properly set up for the track. The second attraction will be six youngsters competing in a 10-lap go-cart race.

In addition, racing fans will see the usual dozen or more races, with time trials at 7:30 p.m. and the first dash immediately following the special events.

ASHE WIPED OUT

WIMBLEDON (CP) — Arthur Ashe was wiped out of the men's singles by Rod Laver, leaving it up to Billie Jean King today to win a singles title for the United States at the 1969 Wimbledon open tennis championships.

Best Guns In West Aim For Kelowna

Forty of the best Canadian marksmen will compete Saturday and Sunday in the B.C. Pistol Shooting Championships, being staged in Kelowna for the first time.

Winners of the top three honors gain automatic entry to the national competition in Winnipeg.

On tap for the shooting match are former Canadian national team winners and a Pan-American Games gold medalist from Vancouver.

The six-man local contingent will offer strong competition with three men who took first and second place positions in sharpshooter and master categories at the 1968 national finals. Uldis Aja, Kelowna Pistol Club member and Canadian indoor free pistol champion, shoots in the master (highest) pistol category and will compete this year.

With him will be Bill Jerome who won several awards in the sharpshooter class at the 1968 Canadian national competition.

SHOOTER IN HOSPITAL

Absent this year will be Ted Dickens, of Kelowna who won the Canadian sharpshooter class championships last year. Dickens is in hospital in Vancouver.

Travelling to the meet are Jim Lee, Quint Marr and Jerome Harris, members of the winning Canadian team at the last national matches, and rated among the best shots in the country.

Lee, from Vancouver, has represented Canada in international shooting championships and holds a gold medal from the Pan American games.

Marr, from Victoria, is a former Canadian champion.

Sanctioned by the Shooting Federation of Canada the match will feature competition with .22, .38 and .45 calibre handguns.

The heavier calibre shoot Saturday and 22's Sunday. Competitors are divided into classes, similar to golf handicaps, with awards given in marksman, sharpshooter, expert and master class. An overall winner on the basis of category is also selected.

Free pistol matches will also be featured in which finer handguns are used than in normal North American competition. U.S. BEST SHOTS An interesting sidelight to the competitions will be entries from Alberta, Saskatchewan and the United States.

Master Marksman Aja said although Canadian marksmen competing will be some of the finest in the country he can guarantee Americans will outshoot everyone.

"They are much better marksmen than we are for the government has been giving assistance to pistol shooting down there," Aja said.

"Considerable sums have been spent there to promote pistol shooting while in Canada pistol shooting is strictly a private pleasure," he added.

To illustrate his point Aja said although proceeds for the match are to help defer travelling expenses to Winnipeg it will be only a "token payment".

Matches get underway at 8:30 a.m. at Sportsman's Field on Cassor Road, "home park" of the Kelowna Pistol Club.

The 20-member Kelowna Club has been trying for the matches for four years, Aja said, and this year their bid was accepted. The meet is organized by the B.C. Handgun Association.

Awards presentations will be at the conclusion of matches, Sunday.

SIKES SHAKES SLUMP

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Dick Sikes broke out of a three-month slump Thursday and shot a seven-under-par 65 to tie the course record at the Warwick Hills Country Club.

But he had to settle for a share of the first round lead in the Buick Open golf tournament with Homero Blancas.

Sikes, who has missed the cut six times and has not finished higher than tie for 27th in the last three months, was not satisfied that his troubles were over.

"If I can break 70 in the second round, I'll feel that I have it back," he said.

Who speaks softly and carries a big kick?

We do.

"If that thing's running, I'll buy it." That's what a man on the dock said as one of our new Mercs moved by. It was and he did. Not surprising—because quiet is engineered into our '69 Mercs all the way from the mighty 125 hp to the feisty 4 hp.

Mercury's full system of silencing includes small-bore, short-stroke engine design, Power Dome combustion chambers, internal reed valves, rubber-mounted aluminum wraparound cowling with sound-absorbent liner, sound-isolating support frame, sound-sealed control and fuel line fittings. Whew! Plus Mercury's Jet-Prop exhaust that burles sound and fumes underwater. All this makes our '69 Mercs the quietest outboards you can buy.

Come in and listen. Then you talk... and we'll listen. Chances are we can get together on your new Mercury. Quietly.

Many Fish On Holiday

By JIM TREADGOLD

THE DOMINION DAY weekend probably saw record numbers of anglers in this area. All camps and resorts reported a busy weekend, and all the smaller mountain lakes were fished quite heavily.

Many tourists are now in the area and will be for the next couple of months.

Fishing reports are somewhat varied this week, due no doubt to the changeable weather, with the barometer none too high. Many of the mountain roads are muddier than they were a month ago from the fairly steady showers.

The hot spot still continues to be Hatheume Lake, where fly fishing has been reported, by a number of anglers, as excellent from Saturday to the July 1 holiday.

Eric Bateson reports this lake as good on the holiday using sunken fly lines with slow retrieves. The best flies reported are the Doc Spratley and Brown Sedge, both fished under the surface.

Pennask Lake is also good with great numbers of anglers in the rough last four miles does not seem to slow down the number of anglers. It will be most interesting to see just how long this lake will hold up to such good fishing at the rate fish are now coming out. It just can't last forever.

Beaver Lake reports have been mostly good with best catches taken on flies and flatfish. One good report from Echo Lake which is just a short hike from Beaver. This lake does produce trout to four pounds.

ON THE WHOLE the Dee Lake reports are good, especially the outlying lakes. Ed Kilbiski reports Doreen as good during the holiday and there have been several good reports from second fly fish Lake.

I fished Oyama Lake during the three days on the weekend, but found the lake rather slow, to what it was three years ago. I have not fished this lake for a couple of years, and my observation from past experience with the lake indicates to me that this lake needs much heavier stocking than it has been getting, as the fishing pressure has been fairly heavy the last couple of seasons.

There are still some nice fish in the lake and a few small ones are seen around the edges, but the heavy rises this lake was noted for were not evident during the three days I spent on the lake. The stocking this lake has received, some 60,000 fingerlings during the past three years, is not enough for a lake of this size. However, one party did take a dozen nice trout there on Tuesday on a sparsely tied "wet" Brown Sedge fly. White Mountain Camp reports fishing as good during the past weekend and on the holiday. Silver and Gold flatfish have been the most productive lures here, but the Willow Troll is taking the largest trout, with some going up to three pounds. There is a nice picnic site at the Camp and family picnickers are welcome. The road in is good for any cars.

JACK PINE LAKE produced well during the holiday with the largest trout taken being five pounds, caught by Tom Williams of Calgary. This trout was taken on a Golden Pheasant fly.

Lin Anderson, Willie Wiens, Wayne Muirhead and Dave McMillan had a nice catch of 28 fish.

The last part of the road in is going to be rebuilt and work started this week. This will no doubt disrupt the road for travel and will necessitate walking the last couple of miles in. The new road will no doubt be finished later this month and then watch the fishermen flock in. Easy access will be tough on this small lake, but camp operator Maurice Chaplin has been working at it and has a few other close by lakes that are getting ready to take the load.

Had a good report on Bull Lake, past Beaverdell, with trout to 19 inches being taken.

Shuswap Lake has been producing much better of late. Alec Ferrier and partner did well here on the holiday, fishing just south of the narrows to Armstrong Point. Alec was using a silver plug on leaded line.

Stan Duggan reports Hidden Lake near Enderby as fair, with a lot of real nice trout in this lake, but rather hard to take.

Rod Pridham reports a fairly successful trip into the Bella-Coola area after spring salmon, but not quite as productive as the last two seasons. The road over the Chilcotin range was extremely wet and muddy.

ALL THE CREEKS and streams in the Okanagan Watershed opened for fishing on July 1. A number of anglers were trying their luck on Mission Creek and the upper reaches were producing a number of the small brook trout. These fish are small, but tasty—and there is no size limit. Bag limit is only 10, so take along a frying pan and have a feed.

Mission Creek will no doubt produce a few nice trout at this time, as a number always are washed down from the upper lakes, during the spring run-off and stay in the pools in the lower parts of the creek.

One creek I hope to try soon is Stirling Creek which is the creek out of Cariboo Lake at McCulloch. This creek flows into Wilkinston creek which in turn flows into the Kettle River at Carmi. There is now a forestry access road into the area and this I hope to explore soon. I believe Stirling Creek could produce some nice brook trout.

I now have brochures and particulars on the B.C. Salmon Derby which takes place in Vancouver on Aug. 16-17, with a first prize of $25,000 in silver.

Tacoma Snaps Winning Skein

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Mounties had their Pacific Coast baseball league winning skein snapped at seven games Thursday night as they bowed 7-4 to Tacoma Cubs, leaders in the PCL's northern division.

The loss in Tacoma put the Cubs seven games in front of the second-place Mounties and put Vancouver back to the .500 mark.

Before the streak began, Vancouver was 13½ games behind the pace-setters but Tacoma added to its cushion behind the effective mound performance of Archie Reynolds who had ninth-inning relief help from Dick LeMay.

Roe Skidmore's three-run homer in the first inning put Tacoma out in front to stay and sent Vancouver starter, Carl Morton to the showers with his second defeat in five decisions this season.

In other games, Spokane Indians picked up 12 hits and managed to outlast visiting Hawaii Islanders 5-4 in a 10-inning affair and Jeff James tossed a five-hit shutout in Phoenix to give Eugene Emera, leaders in the southern division, a 2-0 win over the Giants.

In Tucson, the Toros took both ends of a doubleheader from hapless Portland, trimming the Beavers 7-4 and 6-4. Utility infielder John Ryan provided the spark for the Toros in the first game when he went three-for-five at the plate.

THURSDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Gary Gentry, Mets, stopped St. Louis Cardinals on five hits and breezed with New York to a 5-1 victory Thursday. Batting—Don Kessinger, Chicago, tripled in the sixth inning and doubled in the tying and leading runs in a seven-run seventh inning as the Cubs beat Montreal Expos 8-4.

Expo's Pitcher Holds Chicago -For Little While

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Expos' pitcher Mike Wegener held Chicago Cubs hitless for five innings Thursday, but Don Kessinger spoiled the performance as the National League Eastern Division leaders rallied to defeat the Expos 8-4.

The no-hitter was broken when Kessinger clubbed a sixth-inning triple.

The Expos carried a 3-1 lead into the top half of the seventh inning, before a home crowd of 12,194 at Jarry Park. Kessinger returned to knock Wegener out of the game with a two-run double as the Cubs exploded for seven runs.

Billy Williams, who played his 900th consecutive game, drove across two more seventh inning runs with a single and Ron Santo completed the Cubs' rally with a two-run homer.

The victory kept Chicago 7½ games ahead of second place New York Mets, who crushed St. Louis Cardinals 8-1 behind rookie Gary Gentry's five-hitter. Atlanta Braves, the Western Division leaders, edged San Francisco Giants 5-4 and moved 1½ games ahead of Los Angeles Dodgers, who bowed to Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 11 innings.

BOOSTS HIS AVERAGE

Kessinger, a leading candidate for shortstop on the NL all-star team, boosted his batting average to .296 with his 98th and 99th hits of the season. The switch-hitter, who began his fifth big-league season with a .239 lifetime average, appears certain to surpass his 1968 high of .317.

He shares the league lead in runs scored, 60, with San Francisco's Bobby Bonds and his 23 doubles are three behind Maltby Alou of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Reggie Slowed To A Single

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reggie Jackson, Oakland Athletics' outfielder who is threatening major league baseball's home run record, was held to a single Thursday.

But Lew Krausse, the winning pitcher, and Phil Roof, his catcher, both socked homers as the Athletics defeated Seattle Pilots 6-4 to take a one-game lead over Minnesota Twins in the American League's Western Division.

Oakland's lead was widened when Chicago White Sox stopped the Twins 5-4 on Bill Melton's 11th-inning home run.

In other AL action Thursday, Detroit Tigers took over second place from Boston in the Eastern Division by beating the Red Sox 4-3. Cleveland Indians dumped Washington Senators 7-2 and California Angels edged Kansas City Royals 4-3.

Krausse and Roof provided three runs for the Athletics with their second homers of the season. Two more were forced in on bases loaded walks and another Oakland run scored on a passed ball.

Jackson, who socked three homers Wednesday for a season total of 33, had a single and a walk in five at bats.

CHECK THE PILOTS

Krausse left the game in the sixth inning after Oakland built up a 6-4 lead. Relief pitchers Marcel Lachemann, Jim Roland and Rollie Fingers checked the Pilots as the Athletics posted their seventh win in nine games.

The win was costly for the division leaders as two players were knocked out of action for at least four weeks. Bert Campaneris chipped a bone on his index finger and Mike Hershberger suffered a shoulder separation.

Melton's 13th home run of the season, off Ron Perranoski in the 11th inning, ended Chicago's five-game losing streak and cut a four-game winning streak for the Twins.

Chicago opened up a 4-0 lead as Luis Aparicio drove in two runs with a single and double and scored twice.

The Twins, trailing 4-2, tied the score in the ninth inning when Frank Quilici and Rich Reese hit run-producing singles.

Detroit completed a three-game sweep of its series with Boston by scoring four times in the fourth inning after Carl Yastrzemski had put the Red Sox ahead 1-0 with his 22nd homer.

Bill Freehan tied the score with his 11th homer, off loser Ray Culp.

After an error, a walk and a bunt single by winner Joe Sparrma, Mickey Stanley singled in two runs and Dick McAuliffe hit a sacrifice fly.
